CATARRH!

Five Years' Sickness Cured by Four Bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.

Pain in Shoulders, Back and Lungs, and Droppings in Throat Disappear.

ST. MARK'S, 12, 1876.
MR. T. J. B. HARDING.
DEAR SIR—Being desirous that others may know something of the merits of your OXITOLIN CATARRH REMEDY, I wish to inform you what it has done for me. I am twenty-nine years old; had been out of health for about five years. I had employed three or four different doctors, and tried various medicines, without receiving any permanent benefit, but continued rather to grow worse, until last fall, when I had become so bad as to be unable to do an hour's work at a time. Had severe sore-ness and pain under the shoulder blades and through the shoulders, with very lame back, and a feeling in my right lung as though there was a weight bearing it down, with continual dropping in the throat and down upon the lungs. Such was my condition when I commenced taking your Catarrh Remedy, one bottle of which eased my pains and gave me an improved appetite, and after taking four bottles I was restored to health so as to be able to endure hard and continued labor, such as chopping and clearing land, at which I have been engaged the past season. My recovery I attribute solely, with God's blessing, to the use of your Catarrh Remedy.

Yours truly HENRY NIDER,
Price 50¢ per bottle; For sale by all Druggists

HOW SHE WAS CURED.

"Ida," said Mr. Harland, one morning, "I wish you would give up that very unladylike habit you have of using slang phrases. Such expressions as 'You bet,' and 'Not by a jug full,' sound vulgar when used by young men, but when a lady condescends to such expressions they are positively revolting."

"Why, mamma," and pretty black-eyed Ida looked up with a mischievous smile, "it is becoming quite the fashion. Everybody—I mean all the girls—use them now-a-days."

"Not everybody, Ida," replied Mrs. Harland; "not those who are refined and sensitive, among either young or old. I think I have often been in the company of well bred people, and not a word of slang was spoken. Consider for a moment, my dear, how coarse and vulgar it would seem in your papa or myself if our usual habit was to talk after the fashion."

"I don't know," laughed Ida; "it would be so comical—rather jolly, I fancy. Odd, too! I just wish you would. Then we'd be a fraternity of slang, wouldn't we? But there's the clock—always on the strike when I'm not half ready. Good morning, mamma! I must scurry."

Ida, coming straight from school, ran into the sitting room as usual, for a kiss when she was greeted by her mother with the exclamation:

"Hello puss! You home again?"

Ida for a brief second looked her as

THE NEW LONDON SENSATION.

"Lulu," well known here—is thus spoken of by Lloyd's Weekly, of London, England:—

Westminster Aquarium.—Rambles about London have been for some little time puzzled by a mysterious poster, on which were depicted the letters Z A Z E L being fired out of a cannon. On Saturday afternoon we responded to an invitation to visit the Aquarium, and found Zazel to be the name given to a young lady who may justly be described as one of the fairest, most graceful, and daring performers ever seen upon the trapeze. After being raised to a small platform near the roof, she proceeded to walk across the building on a "cobweb," represented by a wire no thicker than a piece of ordinary whiplard. The return journey was varied by the performer sitting and lying down on her slender support; but whether freely running along, or treading her way slowly with baskets on her feet, she appeared equally safe. At a given signal she was withdrawn, and Zazel was seen suspended from the trapeze, on which she proceeded to perform all the most difficult feats of swinging, hanging, balancing, &c. Then mounting higher she dived headforemost from the topmost bar, turning just before the end of her 50-feet plunge, and alighting on her back on the carpeted net. This feat sent a thrill through the audience, which was followed by loud cheering when the fair artist leaped to her feet and bounded smiling off. Then came the sensation depicted on the poster. On one side of the stage, over the heads of the audience, was slung what looked like a huge cannon, and into this Zazel was duly loaded, only her hair being left just visible from the muzzle. In reply to the inquiry "Are you ready?" came the word "Go," when the fuse was instantly fired, and the young lady was shot forth with a loud explosion, her flight being followed by a cloud of smoke. The vast net spread beneath, some forty feet wide, rendered everything perfectly secure, and the animated bullet turned and ran nimbly off, evidently none the worse for her daring exploit. We heard a rumor that some person, animated by over anxiety, or a worse motive, had written to the police authorities describing the feat as excessively dangerous, whereupon an inspector of the force was deputed to attend; but he arrived at the conclusion that every means had been taken to secure the safety of the young lady, and therefore the Easter sensation of 1877 will be given every day at the Aquarium.

A GREEK FUNERAL.

The Constantinople correspondent of an Edinburgh paper refers to the death of his washerwoman as follows:—"A few hours before the funeral the body was placed in a bath filled with wine, and there washed by the priest and his deacon. The corpse was afterward dressed in the best costumes of the deceased, and laid, face uncovered, in the coffin. This being done, the priest recited certain prayers, and sprinkled the coffin with holy water, and this was also done by the relatives and their friends. The corpse was then carried out by bearers, and on

TO A GORILLA IN A MENAGERIE.

"Oh mighty ape!
Half beast, half man,
Thy uncouth shape,
Betrays a plan
The gulf of Being at a bound to span,
Thou art the link between ourselves and brutes
Lifting the lower to a higher plane;
Thy human face all cavillers refutes,
How sneer at Darwin as a dreamer vain.
Who earnest thou beneath this canvas tent!
Within this cage? behind these iron bars?
Thou, whose young in tropic lands were spent,
With strange companions, under foreign stars?
Art thou not lonely? what is life to thee
Thus mewed in prison' innocent of crime,
Become a spectacle for crowds to see,
And reckless boys to jeer at all the time?
Hast thou no feeling such as we possess?
Art thou devoid of any sense of shame?
Rise up, Oh brother, and thy wrongs redress:
Rise in thy might, and be no longer tame!"

I paused in my apostrophe; the animal arose;

A STRANGE DREAM.

As illustrating the manner in which impressions of the past may emerge from the brain, I shall here furnish an instance bordering closely on the supernatural, and fairly representing the most marvelous of these psychological phenomena. It occurred to a physician; who related it, in my hearing, to a circle whose conversation had turned on the subject of personal fear. "What you are saying," he remarked, "may be very true; but I can assure you that the sentiment of fear, in its utmost degree, is much less common than you suppose; and though you may be surprised to hear me say it, I know from personal experience that this is certainly so. When I was five or six years old, I dreamed that I was passing by a large pond of water in a very solitary place. On the other side of it there stood a great tree that looked as if it had been struck by lightning, and in the pond at another part an old fallen trunk, on one of the prone limbs of which there was a turtle sunning himself. On a sudden a wind arose, which forced me into the pond, and in my dying struggles to extricate myself from its green and slimy waters I awoke, trembling with terror."

"About eight years subsequently, while recovering from a nearly fatal attack of scarlet fever, this dream presented itself to me, identical in all respects, again. Even up to this time I think I had never seen a living tortoise or turtle, but I indistinctly remember that there was a picture of one in the first spelling-book that had been given me. Perhaps on account of my critical condition, this second dream impressed me more dreadfully than the first."

"A dozen years more elapsed. I had become a physician, and was now actively pursuing my professional duties in one of the Southern States. It so fell out that one July afternoon I had to take a long and wearisome ride on horseback. It was Sunday, and extremely hot; the path was solitary, there was not a house for miles. The forest had that intense silence so characteristic of this time of the day, all the wild animals and birds had gone to their retreats to be rid of the heat of the sun. Suddenly now-a-days.

"Not everybody, Ida," replied Mrs. Harland; "not those who are refined and sensitive, among either young or old. I think I have often been in the company of well bred people, and not a word of slang was spoken. Consider for a moment, my dear, how coarse and vulgar it would seem in your papa or myself if our usual habit was to talk after the fashion."

"I don't know," laughed Ida; "it would be so comical—rather jolly, I fancy Odd, too! I just wish you would. Then we'd be a fraternity of slang, wouldn't we? But there's the clock—always on the strike when I'm not half ready. Good morning, mamma! I must scurry."

Mrs. Harland sighed to herself. Ida was her only daughter, and it pained her to feel that she was under the influence of coarse companionship. "As for the school girls of the present day! 'What will the future bring?'"

When Mr. Harland came home to dinner his wife and he went into conference that seemed to result in satisfaction and some fun, for he laughed heartily and declared that he would see what he could do, for it was worth trying. Ida's brothers were also let into the secret, and they, too, declared that it was a grand idea and might cure her.

Ida, coming straight from school, ran into the sitting room, as usual, for a kiss when she was greeted by her mother with the exclamation:

"Hello, pard! You home again?"

Ida for a brief second looked her astonishment; then she answered merrily:

"Yes, mamma, 'right side up with care," as they say on the china boxes."

"Oh, cheese it! I don't chew any gum, but once," replied her mother, restraining herself by a violent effort, though she could hardly keep a grave face at Ida's surprise.

"Nor leather," Ida responded, with a light and rather constrained laugh, and went to the piano to practice a new song.

"I say, sis, shut that off!" cried her father, who had entered the room.

"We'll excuse the squalling just now. Hash is ready, and let's waltz down to it."

"What waltz shall I play?" queried Ida, with another faint laugh.

"I say, ha! it's this been a jolly day!" exclaimed her brother Ned.

"Hunk-dery!" Sam responded—the grave, lawyer-like Sam, with whom no one dared to take liberty. Did Ida's ears serve her right, or was home really getting "topsey turvey," in her own favorite language.

"Bet your life," added Ned, coolly. "Say, sis, how are you at school—up a tree?"

"Yes, at the top," retorted Ida, no longer laughing, but just a little inclined to pout.

"Bet your sweet life you'll fall soon, then," was the courteous answer.

"Well, it won't be your fall, will it?" and Ida bit her lip.

"Papa," said Ida, after an almost silent dinner, for some way, the slang seemed to get of place, "may I take lessons off Miss Parker, the new teacher? She's awful sweet, and the girls are going wild over her."

"Are they? Then I suppose she is what you would call bully, eh? Do you think she really knows her biz? If she don't, you see, I'd rather you wouldn't have any truck with her. You see, it isn't every mosey who sets herself up who makes the best sort of teachers and that kind of thing is guzzy and getting played out."

"She isn't played out," retorted Ida with spirit. "If you could hear her play you wouldn't think so."

"Undoubtedly you think so, my tender cherub," her father said with a grave face; "but most teachers don't pan out worth a cent. If this Miss Parker is some 'pumpkins' and can teach you nobby pieces, you have my consent to skip round the corner and begin to take a term of lessons from the fair damsel. Boys, dry up and cheese the racket! You've got more cheek than a government mule. Don't give me any of your lip," he added as Charley attempted an answer.

just visible from the muzzle. In reply to the inquiry "Are you ready?" came the word "Go," when the fuze was instantly fired, and the young lady was shot forth with a loud explosion, her flight being followed by a cloud of smoke. The vast net spread beneath, some forty feet wide, rendered everything perfectly secure, and the animated bullet turned and ran nimbly off, evidently none the worse for her daring exploit. We heard a rumor that some person, animated by over anxiety, or a worse motive, had written to the police authorities describing the feat as excessively dangerous, whereupon an inspector of the force was deputed to attend; but he arrived at the conclusion that every means had been taken to secure the safety of the young lady, and therefore the Easter sensation of 1877 will be given every day at the Aquarium.

A GREEK FUNERAL.

The Constantinople correspondent of an Edinburgh paper refers to the death of his washerwoman as follows:—"A few hours before the funeral the body was placed in a bath filled with wine, and there washed by the priest and his deacon. The corpse was afterward dressed in the best costumes of the deceased, and laid, face uncovered, in the coffin. This being done, the priest recited certain prayers, and sprinkled the coffin with holy water, and this was also done by the relatives and their friends. The corpse was then carried out by bearers, and on reaching the door of the cottage the person the most dear to the deceased approached, bearing a cup full of white wine and a sponge, and after having had them blessed by the priest, proceeded to wash the mouth of the dead woman with the wine as a symbol of washing away her iniquities. This done, the cup was thrown on the ground, trod on, broken in many pieces, and its fragments hastily covered over with earth or thrown into the sea. The funeral procession was then formed, and started in the following order:—First came the deacon, carrying the lid of the coffin, and accompanied by three friends of the deceased—one carrying a tray covered with numerous small glasses, another with a tray with small bits of toasted bread, and the third carrying a large bottle of wine. These were followed by the choristers, the priest, the body (the face uncovered), and lastly, by the relatives and friends. In this order the company paraded through all the streets of the village, the women of the family assisted by the professional weeping women, crying and loudly lamenting, and all afterward returned to the house of the deceased. There the corpse was laid for a few minutes on the ground at the entrance, and then taken up and held high in the air by the bearers, the relatives and friends thereupon passing under the coffin as a token of respect for the dead. The funeral thereafter proceeded to the church, where, while the usual ceremonies were being gone through, the wine and toast were handed round, and each person partook of them, saying in a loud voice, 'May the Lord receive her,' the deacon answering each time, 'Amen,' and incensing the speakers. A fresh collection was made for the family, and then the funeral started for the burial ground. There the corpse was deposited in its finery, the coffin covered up and laid in the earth, amid the fresh lamentations of the women. Sweetmeats were then thrown on the grave and each assistant was bound to pick one up and eat it, saying afresh, 'May the Lord receive her.' The funeral having thus concluded, the family and friends retired to the nearest cafe, where I had the satisfaction of seeing the husband of the defunct washerwoman consoling himself by getting gloriously drunk on 'raki,' a kind of white brandy which is largely drunk by the lower orders in this country. Three days after the funeral, plates of boiled barley covered with sugar, called 'colivas,' were sent round to all the acquaintances of the family, and eaten in memory of the deceased. This latter custom in the richer families is renewed three months and nine months after the death.

On the other side of it there stood a great tree that looked as if it had been struck by lightning, and in the pond at another part an old fallen trunk, on one of the prone limbs of which there was a turtle sunning himself. It so fell out that one July afternoon I had to take a long and wearisome ride on horseback. It was Sunday, and extremely hot; the path was solitary, there was not a house for miles. The forest had that intense silence so characteristic of this time of the day; all the wild animals and birds had gone to their retreats to be rid of the heat of the sun. Suddenly at one point of the road I came upon a great stagnant water pool, and casting my eyes across it, there stood a pine-tree blasted by lightning, and on a log that was nearly even with the surface a turtle was basking in the sun. The dream of my infancy was upon me, the bridle fell from my hands, and unutterable fear overshadowed me, up I slunk away from the accursed place.

"Though business occasionally afterward would have drawn me that way, I could not summon resolution to go, and actually have taken roundabout paths. It seemed to me profoundly amazing that the dream that I had had should after twenty years be realized, without respect to difference of scene, or climate, or age. A good clergyman of my acquaintance to my spiritual advantage, and in his kind enthusiasm—for he knew that I had been more than once brought to the point of death by such fevers—interpreted my dream that I should die of marsh miasm.

"Most persons have doubtless observed that they suddenly encounter events of a trivial nature, in their course of life, of which they have an indistinct recollection that they have dreamed before. For a long time it seemed to me that this was a case of that kind, and that it might be set down among the mysterious and unaccountable. How wonderful it is that we so often fail to see the simple explanation of things, when that explanation is actually intruding itself before us! And so in this case; it was long before the truth gleaned in upon me, before my reasoning powers shook off the delusive impressions of my senses. But it occurred at last; for I said to myself, is it more probable that such a mystery is true, or that I have dreamed for the third time that which I had already dreamed of twice before? Have I really seen the blasted tree and the sunning turtle? Are a weary ride of fifty miles, the noontide heat, the silence that could almost be felt, no provocation to a dream? I have ridden under such circumstances many a mile fast asleep, and have awoke and known it; and so I resolved that if ever circumstances carried me to those parts again, I would satisfy myself as to the matter.

"Accordingly, after a few years, when an incident led me to travel there, I revisited the well-remembered scene. There was still the stagnant pool, but the blasted pine-tree was gone; and after I had pushed my horse through the marshy thicket as far as I could force him, and then dismounted and pursued a close investigation on foot in every direction around the spot, I was clearly convinced that no pine-tree had ever grown there;

I am happy to say that by this lesson

ENGLISH MOTHERS.

It is a marked feature of social life in England, and certainly one of its especial charms, that mothers and daughters are so uniformly seen together at their own homes. Not only is the mother the first lady to whom you visit, but mistress of ceremonies throughout. Not only does she preside at the dinner table, but in the evening party she sits as queen.
 Whatever may be your first impression of such an arrangement—if it happens that your sympathies are with the younger ladies—you will very soon learn to think that the mother's absence would be very sincerely regretted by the daughters. As a picture all must admit the arrangement to be perfect. The portly form and matronly dignity of the mother are an exquisite foil to the youthful beauty and maiden coyness of the daughters. And you will find nothing to mar, but everything to enhance, the interest of the picture. The mother's presence never seems to operate as an unwelcome restraint. Between her and the daughters you will mark the most joyful, playful, loving freedom, without the sacrifice of a little parental dignity and authority on the one hand, or of sweet, graceful filial duty on the other. It may be said of English families generally, that these two things are eminently characteristic, to wit: uniform parental authority and the most charming freedom of intercourse between parents and their children.

 and unutterable fear overshadowed me,
 up I slunk away from the accursed place.

"Though business occasionally afterward would have drawn me that way, I could not summon resolution to go, and actually have taken roundabout paths. It seemed to me profoundly amazing that the dream that I had had should after twenty years be realized, without respect to difference of scene, or climate, or age.
 A good clergyman of my acquaintance to my spiritual advantage, and in his kind enthusiasm—for he knew that I had been more than once brought to the point of death by such fevers—interpreted my dream that I should die of marsh miasm.

"Most persons have doubtless observed that they suddenly encounter events of a trivial nature, in their course of life, of which they have an indistinct recollection that they have dreamed before. For a long time it seemed to me that this was a case of that kind, and that it might be set down among the mysterious and unaccountable. How wonderful it is that we so often fail to see the simple explanation of things, when that explanation is actually intruding itself before us! And so in this case; it was long before the truth gleamed in upon me, before my reasoning powers shook off the delusive impressions of my senses. But it occured at last; for I said to myself, is it more probable that such a mystery is true, or that I have dreamed for the third time that which I had already dreamed of twice before? Have I really seen the blasted tree and the sunning turtle? Are a weary ride of fifty miles, the noontide heat, the silence that could almost be felt, no provocation to a dream? I have ridden under such circumstances many a mile fast asleep, and have awoke and known it; and so I resolved that if ever circumstances carried me to those parts again, I would satisfy myself as to the matter.

"Accordingly, after a few years, when an incident led me to travel there, I revisited the well-remembered scene. There was still the stagnant pool, but the blasted pine-tree was gone; and after I had pushed my horse through the marshy thicket as far as I could force him, and then dismounted and pursued a close investigation on foot in every direction around the spot, I was clearly convinced that no pine-tree had ever grown there;
 not a stump nor any token of its remains could be seen; and so now I have concluded that at the glimpse of the water, with the readiness of those who are falling asleep, I had adopted an external fact into a dream; that it had aroused the trains of thought which in former years had occupied me, and that, in fine, the mystery was all a delusion, and that I had been frightened with less than a shadow."

The instructive story of this physician teaches us how readily and yet how impressively the remains of old ideas may be recalled; how they may, as it were, be projected into the space beyond us, and take a position among existing realities.
 For this all that is necessary is that there should be an equalization of old impressions with new sensations, and that may be accomplished either by diminishing the force of present sensations, or by increasing the activity of those parts of the brain in which the old impressions are stored up.

Thus, when we are falling asleep, the organs of sense no longer convey their special impressions with the clearness and force that they did in our waking hours, and this gives to the traces that are stored up in the brain the power of drawing upon themselves the attention of the mind.—Dr. J. W. DRAPER, in Harper's Magazine.

THE LICENSED LIQUOR SELL-STAMPER.

The full extent of the Moffett Liquor Law of Virginia, which went into operation last month, shows that, in one respect at least, it is a curiosity in legislation. The attempt is to be made to collect a tax on liquor, or, more properly, to determine the amount to be collected, by machinery. In addition to the payment of the usual amount for a license, each bar-room keeper or retail liquor dealer is required to hire from the revenue commissioner of his district an "apparatus," said to resemble a gas meter in appearance, and termed a "bar-room register." It operates in a manner analogous to that of the familiar "bell punch" or "indicator" of the street railways of our large cities. The law directs each bar-room keeper immediately upon the sale of each drink of wine, potent spirits, malt liquors, or any mixture thereof, in the presence of the purchaser or person to whom it is delivered, to turn the crank of the proper register until the bell has struck once, and the indicator on its dial has moved one point or number for each drink sold by him. The registers are to be inspected monthly and the tax imposed is 2½ cents for each drink or half a pint of wine spirit, and half a cent for the same quantity of malt liquor. The introduction of the "apparatus" is the only novelty in this law. With the exception of informers (who are allowed one-third of the fine imposed for disobeying the law), and possibly also the manufacturer of the indicator, no one can be particularly interested in its enforcement; and every regular toper may be expected to connive at the breaking of a law, the direct tendency of which is to raise the cost of drinking.

A CENTENNIAL MYSTERY CLEARED UP.

Here is a true story from Philadelphia, with all the elements of mystery and dramatic horror for which our modern novelists and playwrights strive in vain. Two or three months after the Exposition closed the dead body of a man was found in a lonely gorge, six miles from the city, too much decomposed for recognition, and without the slightest clue in his clothing by which to identify him. It was supposed that he had been a guest at the Grangers' Hotel, which was an enormous temporary barracks to which thousands of transient lodgers came daily. No register was kept, nor could any account be taken of them after they paid for their room in advance. What could be more unlikely than that this unrecognizable body could be identified as one of the nameless millions who came and went through Philadelphia last year, or that his murderer should be found?

Yet, by a chance letter to a prominent newspaper publisher from Germany, the whole strange story is laid bare. The murdered man proves to be a young German of a wealthy family who came to Philadelphia last summer. At this Grangers' Hotel he fell in with another German and formed a close companionship with him. The stranger learned all his secrets, the particulars of his business and family life, obtained letters from him, from which he studied his handwriting, peculiarities of expression, etc. When his plans were ripe he enticed the young fellow out to this lonely gorge, killed him, took possession of his trunk and other property, and opened a correspondence with his family in Germany. Since last October this correspondence has been carried on, the murderer personating his victim and obtaining by pleas of illness, losses, etc., large sums of money. Prompt means are being taken for the arrest of the murderer.

NEW LONDON SENSATION.

London have been for some little time puzzled by a mysterious poster, on which were depicted the letters "E. L." being fired out of a cannon. On Saturday afternoon we responded to the invitation to visit the Aquarium, and found Zazel to be the name given to a lady who may justly be described as the fairest, most graceful, and gentlest ever seen upon the stage. After being raised to a small room near the roof, she proceeded to address the building on a "cobweb," sent by a wire no thicker than a hair of ordinary whipcord. The return of the signal was varied by the performer and lying down on her slender form; but whether freely running, or treading her way slowly with her feet, she appeared equally graceful.

At a given signal she was within, and Zazel was seen suspended the trapeze, on which she proceed-perform all the most difficult feats mounting higher, she dived head-out from the topmost bar, turning

TO A GORILLA IN A MENAGERIE.

"Oh mighty ape!
Half beast, half man,
Thy uncouth shape,
Betrays a plan
The gulf of Being at a bound to span,
Thou art the link between ourselves and brutes
Lifting the lower to a higher plane;
Thy human face all caviillers refutes,
Who sneer at Darwin as a dreamer vain.
How camest thou beneath this canvas tent!
Within this cage? behind these iron bars?
Thou, whose young in tropic lands were spent.
With strange companions, under foreign stars?
Art thou not lonely? what is life to thee
Thus mew'd in prison? innocent of crime,
Become a spectacle for crowds to see,
And reckless boys to jeer at all the time?
Hast thou no feeling such as we possess?
Art thou devoid of any sense of shame?
Rise up, Oh brother, and thy wrongs redress:
Rise in thy might, and be no longer tame!"

I paused in my apostrophe; the animal arose;
He seized the bars that penned him in; my blood
in terror froze;
He shook the cage from side to side; the frightened people fled;
Then in a tone of savage wrath the horrid monster said:
"I'm hired by the wake to wear the dirty cray-thur's skin;
I come from Tipperary, and me name is Mickey Flynn."

A STRANGE DREAM.

As illustrating the manner in which impressions of the past may emerge from the brain, I shall here furnish an instance bordering closely on the supernatural, and fairly representing the most marvelous of these psychological phenomena. It occurred to a physician; who related it, in my hearing, to a circle whose conversation had turned on the subject of personal fear. "What you are saying," he remarked, "may be very true; but I can assure you that the sentiment of fear, in its utmost degree, is much less common than you suppose; and though you may be surprised to hear me say it, I know from personal experience that this is certainly so. When I was five or six years old, I dreamed that I was passing by a large pond of water in a very solitary place. On the other side of it there stood a great tree that looked as if it had been struck by lightning, and in the pond at another part an old fallen trunk, on one of the prone limbs of which there was a turtle sunning himself. On a sudden a wind arose, which forced me into the pond, and in my dying struggles to extricate myself from its green and slimy waters I awoke, trembling with terror.

"About eight years subsequently, while recovering from a nearly fatal attack of scarlet fever, this dream presented itself to me, identical in all respects, again.
Even up to this time I think I had never seen a living tortoise or turtle, but I in-distinctly remember that there was a picture of one in the first spelling-book that had been given me. Perhaps on account of my critical condition, this second dream impressed me more dreadfully than the first.

"A dozen years more elapsed. I had become a physician, and was now actively pursuing my professional duties in one of the Southern States. It so fell out that one July afternoon I had to take a long and wearisome ride on horseback.
It was Sunday, and extremely hot; the path was solitary, there was not a house for miles. The forest had that intense silence so characteristic of this time of the day—all the wild animals and birds guard for their safety, of course). There can be no healthier pastime for boys or girls of dyspeptic or consumptive tendencies than paddling the summer away in a light skiff. We know of more than one child—a few years ago narrow-chested, pale, stooped-shouldered, subject to incessant headaches in school, who is now broad-breasted and ruddy, simply from the exercise of rowing during the summer months.

2. Pack up all the finery of both girls and boys and—leave it at home. Have stout, well-fitting shoes made for them to stand, without heels. Clothe the whole of them in flannel. Navy blue at forty-five or fifty cents per yard is the best.
Pretty and cheap loose-fitting suits of this are the most artistic dress for child or adult on the sea-side, hills, or wherever tramping, and sudden showers, and downright fun are the rule. Flannel is, by all odds, the coolest dress to wear in the hot season, and an almost certain preventative of colds, neuralgia, etc.

3. If there are boys, you will find it a wise investment to spend $6 or $8 for a shelter tent. They could sleep in it, if necessary, with benefit to health, but in any case they can carry it to lonely solitudes back of the barn, or up on the mountain, and camp out all day and night, cooking their own meals and keeping up a watch-fire.

4. Provide for rainy days—a checkerboard, decoleomanie pictures, story books, and especially good humor. A family stranded upon the barren shore of a farm house with nothing but their trunks is a spectacle not edifying to gods or man.—

THE SIOUX AS CAVALRY.

Gen. Crooks is not disposed to belittle the foes whom he has been fighting since last spring.—He thinks that an Indian warrior makes the best cavalryman in the world, and he is undoubtedly right. In his annual report he says:—"When the Sioux Indian was armed with a bow and arrow he was more formidable, fighting as he does most of the time on horseback, than when he had the old-fashioned muzzle-loading rifle. But when he came into possession of the breech-loader and metallic cartridge, which allows him to load and re-fire from his horse with perfect ease, he became ten thousand times more formidable. With the improved arms I have seen our friendly Indians, riding at full speed shoot, and kill a wolf, also on the run, while it is a rare thing that our troops can hit an Indian on horseback, though the soldier may be on his feet at the time. The Sioux is a cavalry soldier from the time he has intelligence to ride a horse or fire a gun. If he wishes to dismount, his hardy pony, educated by long usage, will graze around near where he had been left, ready, when the master wants to mount, either to move forward or escape. Even with their lodges and families they can move at the rate of fifty miles per day. They are perfectly familiar with the country, have their spies and hunting parties out all the time at distances of from twenty to fifty miles—each way from their villages, know the number and movement of all troops that may be operating against them, and are

THE INTELLIGENT PARROT.

Mr. Bayard Taylor, writing of animal nature in The Atlantic, tells this story of a parrot owned by a friend in Chicago. When the great fire was raging, its owner saw that she could rescue nothing except what she instantly took in her hands. There were two objects equally dear, the parrot and the old family Bible, and she could take but one. After a moment of hasty hesitation she seized the Bible, and was hastening away, when the parrot cried out in a loud and solemn voice "God! God, deliver us!" No human being could have been deaf to such an appeal; the precious Bible was sacrificed and the bird saved. He was otherwise a clever bird. In the home to which he was taken there were among other visitors a gentleman rather noted for his volubility. When the parrot first heard him it listened in silence for some time, then to the amazement of all present it said very emphatically, "You talk too much!" The gentleman, at first embarrassed, presently resumed his interrupted discourse. Thereupon the parrot laid his head on one side, gave an indescribably comical and contemptuous "H'm—m!" and added, "There he goes again!"

MARKSMANSHIP.

It is surprising, says the Missouri Republican, how few people there are who can throw with any accuracy at a mark, even at close range, and it is more surprising how few people there are who know this fact. The average man or boy will laugh at you if you tell him he cannot stand thirty feet off and hit an object presenting a surface of a foot square, and will be willing to bet his boots that he can do it nearly every time; but he would lose the boots. In recognition of this prevalent over-confidence, some enterprising sharp has set up a catch-permy affair on the street, which is yielding him a handsome profit. A board screen has a place about a foot square cut in its centre, which is illuminated as a target, and the conceited public is permitted to stand about thirty feet and whack away at the centre piece with a base ball at the rate of ten cents for three throws. To hit the centre piece once in three times is to win a cigar. To hit it twice in three times is to win a cigar and a chromo of the gaudiest pattern. To hit it three times in succession is to win a cigar, a chromo, and fifty cents. It was as good as a play yesterday to watch the passers-by taking in their ten-cent surprises.

THE GODDESS OF FASHION IN TURKEY.

A correspondent writer from Constantinople—"The Minister of Police has issued a notice ordering the faithful of both sexes to attend the mosques with greater regularity, and threatening those who habitually stay away from the mosque with punishment. He has also enjoined the women to give up the fashionable the mouth of the dead woman with me as a symbol of washing away her ices. This done, the cup was on the ground, trod on, broken in pieces, and its fragments hastily trod over with earth or thrown into the air. The funeral procession was then started in the following order:—First came the deacon, carrying the coffin, and accompanied by friends of the deceased—one carry- ing covered with numerous small flowers, another with a tray with small toasted bread, and the third carrying a bottle of wine. These were followed by the choristers, the priest, the wife (uncovered), and lastly, by the relatives and friends. In this order the party paraded through all the streets of the village, the women of the family assisted by the professional weep- ers, crying and loudly lamenting, afterward returned to the house. There the corpse was a few minutes on the ground at the feet of the bearers, and then taken up and placed in the air by the bearers, the friends and relatives thereupon passing the coffin as a token of respect for the dead. The funeral thereafter pro- ceeded to the church, where, while the ceremonies were being gone through, the wine and toast were handed to each person partook of them, in a loud voice. 'May the Lord re- store the deacon answering each time, and incensing the speakers. A collection was made for the family, and the funeral started for the ground. There the corpse was placed in its finery, the coffin covered with flowers in the earth, amid the fresh flowers of the women. Sweet- eners were then thrown on the grave and the assistant was bound to pick one up, saying, 'May the Lord restore the funeral having thus ended, the family and friends retired to the nearest cafe, where I had the pleasure of seeing the husband of the washerwoman consoling himself by drinking on 'raki,' a white brandy which is largely used by the lower orders in this country. Days after the funeral, plates of barley covered with sugar, called 'sams,' were sent round to all the friends of the family, and eaten in the house of the deceased. This latter custom in the richer families is renewed on the eighth and nine months after the marked feature of social life in England, and certainly one of its especial characteristics, is that mothers and daughters are rarely seen together at their own homes. Not only is the mother the first whom you visit, but mistress of the house throughout. Not only does she do at the dinner table, but in the evening party she sits as queen. Her may be your first impression of an arrangement—if it happens to be a symposium with the young- sters—you will very soon learn to at the mother's absence would be sincerely regretted by the daughters. A picture all must admit the mother to be perfect. The portly, maternal dignity of the mother, the exquisite foil to the youthful and maiden coyness of the daughter, and you will find nothing to mar, nothing to enhance, the interest of the scene. The mother's presence ends to operate as an unwelcome interruption. Between her and the daughter will mark the most joyful, play- ing freedom, without the sacrific- ing parental dignity and author- ity on one hand, or of sweet, grateful y on the other. It may be said in families generally, that these are eminently characteristic, uniform parental authority and charming freedom, of inter- action between parents and their child-the sum. The dream of my infancy was upon me, the bridle fell from my hands, and unutterable fear overshadowed me, and I slunk away from the accursed place.

"Though business occasionally after- ward would have drawn me that way, I could not summon resolution to go, and actually have taken roundabout paths. It seemed to me profoundly amazing that the dream that I had had should after twenty years be realized, without respect to difference of scene, or climate, or age. A good clergyman of my acquaintance to my spiritual advantage, and in his kind enthusiasm—for he knew that I had been more than once brought to the point of death by such fevers—interpreted my dream that I should die of marsh miasm.

"Most persons have doubtless observed that they suddenly encounter events of a trivial nature, in their course of life, of which they have an indistinct recollection that they have dreamed before. For a long time it seemed to me that this was a case of that kind, and that it might be set down among the mysterious and unaccountable. How wonderful it is that we so often fail to see the simple explanation of things, when that explanation is actually intruding itself before us! And so in this case it was long before the truth gleamed in upon me. Before my reasoning powers shook off the delusive impressions of my senses. But it occurred at last; for I said to myself, is it more probable that such a mystery is true, or that I have dreamed for the third time that which I had already dreamed of twice before? Have I really seen the blasted tree and the sunning turtle? Are a weary ride of fifty miles, the noontide heat, the silence that could almost be felt, no provocation to a dream? I have ridden under such circumstances many a mile fast asleep, and have awoke and known it; and so I resolved that if ever circumstances carried me to those parts again, I would satisfy myself as to the matter.

"Accordingly, after a few years, when an incident led me to travel there, I re- visited the well-remembered scene. There was still the stagnant pool, but the blasted pine-tree was gone; and after I had pushed my horse through the marshy thicket as far as I could force him, and then dismounted and pursued a close investigation on foot in every direction around the spot, I was clearly convinced that no pine-tree had ever grown there; not a stump nor any token of its remains could be seen; and so now I have concluded that at the glimpse of the water, with the readiness of those who are falling asleep, I had adopted an external fact into a dream; that it had aroused the trains of thought which in former years had occupied me, and that, in fine, the mystery was all a delusion, and that I had been frightened with less than a shadow."

The instructive story of this physician teaches us how readily and yet how impressively the remains of old ideas may be recalled; how they may, as it were, be projected into the space beyond us, and take a position among existing realities. For this all that is necessary is that there should be an equalization of old impres- sions with new sensations, and that may be accomplished either by diminishing the force of present sensations, or by in- creasing the activity of those parts of the brain in which the old impressions are stored up.

Thus, when we are falling asleep, the organs of sense no longer convey their special impressions with the clearness and force that they did in our waking hours, and this gives to the traces that are stored up in the brain the power of drawing upon themselves the attention of the mind.—Dr. J. W. DRAPER, in Harper's Magazine.

HINTS FOR THE SUMMER VACATION.

1. If there be any weakly children in the family, make an effort to find a boarding-place near a river or lake, and give them a boat and oars (with due responsibility at Windsor Castle that were always occupied by Prince Albert, and have never been used since his death. The faithful servant who points them out says that nothing has been touched in them since the fatal fourteenth of December, 1861, when the "blameless prince" quitted these scenes of earthly glory to find, let us hope, even more delightful ones among celestial spheres. The prince's hat and cane stand where he last placed them; the book he was reading is open at the page where he left off; the bed on which he slept and whereon he died stands exactly as it did when he breathed his last; an inscription at its foot records the date of his birth and of his death. To come daily into these deserted rooms and see for herself that the thoughtless hand of some servant has not disturbed any of their pious arrangements; to gaze her fill on the vacant couch, the unfinished book; even (it is said) to herself brush away any trace of dust which may have fallen within the hour upon the cherished relics of her dead husband, is a duty scrupulously performed by the exalted woman and good wife each day when she is at Windsor. It may be that it is the reports of these truly wifely actions—which could not degrade a woman if she were a queen of heaven instead of empress of India—which have spread from lip to lip, and formed a basis for unfounded gossip about the queen's semi-lunacy concerning the prince. That she causes his plate to be placed at all meals, talks to him as if he were present, and other things more shocking than these, are rumors without a grain of truth in them at this time or formerly.

VILLAINY IN THE NAME OF RELIGION.

Rev. Henry Newman Wright, pastor of the Independent Methodist Church at Northville, Long Island, is in trouble. The Trustees engaged him some time ago, but became dissatisfied with him and gave him notice to quit. He refused to go, and the Trustees gave him notice that he would be excluded from the pulpit. Issue was therefore joined, and both sides were determined to have the upper hand. On the succeeding Sunday Mr. Wright preached to a congregation of curiosity-seekers, having obtained an entrance to the church several hours before the Trustees put in an appearance. On the next Sunday, however, the Trustees were masters of the situation. The night previous word was sent around that Rev. Mr. Wright and his friends would break down the doors of the church if refused admittance. The Trustees and their friends wished it to be understood that some heats might be broken if force was attempted. A large crowd collected early in the morning, and were well pleased with the subsequent performance. When Mr. Wright and his friends went up the steps to force the doors, the Trustees and their body guarded pulled them down. It was ludicrous in the extreme. The Trustees came off the victors. Last Sunday there was a very stormy time at the church, and the village was excited all day over the difficulty. Sheriff Smith and a posse of deputies preserved order and dispersed the contending parties. All of Monday the excitement continued. At about 11 o'clock the church was fired and burned to the ground. The contract price for its erection was $6,000, and about $1,000 had been expended in improving it since. At the time that the fire was raging in the church persons who were running to the scene past the residence of Mr. Wright discovered fire under his stoop, and but for this no doubt the personage would have been reduced to ashes also. Each side charges the crime upon the other. The church was fired in several places on the inside, and holes were bored in the floor to give it ventilation.

I shall soon shall have an opportunity of judging whether these orders are obeyed, for it is announced that the Sultan intends to throw the Imperial gardens of Yidiz Kiosk and those of Tcheraghban open to the public every Friday afternoon. Military bands are to play in both gardens."

FRAUDS ON FARMERS.

The latest fraud on the farming community is the spring bed swindle, the modus operandi of which is as follows:—The first of the gang engages storage room in the farmer's barn for spring beds representing himself as agents for the manufacturers. He gets the victim to write down his name and address and departs. Shortly afterwards another stranger informs the farmer that the spring beds he ordered are at the depot, and presents his bill for a large invoice. The farmer disclaims the transaction upon which the collector shows him his signature to a large order for beds. If he still refuses to settle, two more strangers visit him, representing themselves to be the lawyers of the company. They threaten legal proceedings but are willing to compromise for a portion of the claim.

from the shackles of corruption, and the wasting hand of extravagant administration? and those who inveigh most glibly against the official course of Mr Cartwright should not fail to recollect that he assumed and has held office under the most discouraging circumstances. He had left him as a legacy a disorganized and muddled financial condition of the country, brought about by the corrupt course of reckless extravagance of his predecessors in office.

The national folly the Pacific Railway guarantees to British Columbia, handicapped it with its gigantic hands in the start of the race. Public works such as could not brook delay under the expenditure of large sums of money. The hard times and the consequent depression of business throughout the world contracted the avenues of public revenue. In fact every obstacle which circumstances could combine, every obstacle which the jealous malice of an out-of-office faction would throw in his path, he has had to contend with yet he has come out of the fiery trial with—considering everything—triumph. No wonder the reactionist party are straining every nerve, organizing associations, looking after the assessment rolls with a vengeance which would in the interests of honesty perhaps, be the better of a little watching. They see the magnitude of the struggle before them, and concoct their plans accordingly. Let them proceed we await the selection of a victim to make the attempt of redeeming the County of Lennox in the interests of the opposition.

BARNUM'S TATTOOED NOBLEMAN.

A FULL DESCRIPTION OF THE WONDER.

The following full description, from the Bridgeport (Conn.) Daily Standard, of Capt. Costentenus, the wonderfully tattooed Albanian Greek, with P. T. Barnum's new and only Greatest Show on Earth, will be very interesting to our readers:

"We saw at ex-Mayor Barnum's residence, this morning, a wonder of tattooing on the person of Capt. George Costentenus, a descendant of a noble Greek family, from the province of Albania. His statement is that while he, together with an American and a Spaniard, were mining in Chinese Tartary, in 1867 a rebellion arose, and the three joined the insurgents. Ill luck coming to their cause, they were taken prisoners, and subjected to the tattooing process for three months, as a punishment in lieu of having their heads cut off. He says that the process causes such terrible pain that it required six men to hold him while one performed the operation. After it was completed all three escaped from prison, but the American only survived five or six months. The Spaniard lost his eyesight, and died in Morilla; but Capt. Costentenus survives and is in good health. The tattooing was done with indigo and cinnabar, producing blue and red colors; and there is not a single point on his body which is not covered with these colors, so that it is impossible to discover what was the natural color of his skin except by his ears and the soles of his feet, which are the only parts they did not tattoo. He appeared at first sight as though he was clothed with very close-fitting tights, made of a shawl or very soft, fine druggett. Upon a close inspection, however, it is seen that he is entirely naked, and that the apparent tights are an illusion. Moreover, his whole person is found to be covered with a great variety of animal figures, with their names, most ingeniously and skillfully

The Premier and other leaders of the Liberal party will probably address public meetings in various parts of the Dominion during the summer.

BELLEVILLE, May 26.—Elizabeth Fradette, the woman accused jointly with one Geo. Glenn of being guilty of poisoning her husband in the township of Rawdon on Sunday last, was brought here and lodged in gaol yesterday afternoon. She asserted her own innocence and the guilt of Glenn, who has not as yet been arrested. A number of men are scouring the woods in search of him, and his capture is expected.

AMERICAN.

On the arrival of the European steamers at New York on Saturday, the Custom House officers seized a parcel containing suits of gentlemen's clothing of the finest patterns and quality, several rolls of silk and grenadine for ladies' dresses, and also a number of pairs of shoes and other articles. The goods were valued at $1,200, the duties amounting to over $600. The gentlemen's suits were from Poole, the London tailor. The seizure was made on information furnished to Special Agent Brackett, who was told some time ago that an agent for London and Liverpool had been to New York and measured 200 gentlemen for suits, which when done were forwarded to them free of duty through officers of steamships.

The extent of the destitution prevailing throughout the Pennsylvania coal fields is again assuming alarming proportions, and the announcement that the principal coal operators have concluded to suspend mining operations for the month has caused great consternation.

CHESTER, Pa., May 22.—At the launch of the iron steamship Saratoga, at Roach's shipyard this morning, about forty men were under the vessel when it went off, and not hearing the order to come out 7 men were crushed to death. This is the first accident since Roach took the yard, and he has launched some forty vessels. The killed and wounded were workmen engaged in knocking the blocks from under the keel. The scene during the time the ship was going off was heartrending, the men being seen struggling to escape, while the huge blocks rolled by the ship crushed them to jelly. No assistance could possibly be rendered. Flags are at half-mast throughout the town and work at the yard stopped. John Roach ordered money to be furnished to the families of the victims.

On Sunday night disguised men went to Bandyville, Ky., gaol, seized the negro prisoner Levi Pile, who attempted to murder Mrs. Pile, wife of his employer, last week, and dragged him to the woods, where they hung him.

An illicit distillery on Newtown Creek was broken up last night and 8,000 gallons of mash and thirteen hogsheds of molasses seized by United States officers.

Proceedings have been commenced in the English courts on behalf of a number of residents of New York and Long Island to recover, as heirs at law, $12,000,000 in money. It seems that in 1810 Robert Shephard deposited in the Bank of England a million pounds to the credit of his sister, who had married John Shephard and gone to Canada. Lately an advertisement appeared, inviting the heirs of Robert and his sister to claim this money which, it is now estimated, has accumulated to thirteen million dollars. Altogether about eleven persons in this country lay a claim to a share in the money.

THE WAR NEWS.

MURDER OF CHRISTIANS BY TURKS.

In the Turkish village of Jurtuk there is quite a Christian element, though subordinate in numbers to the Turk. On the night of the 16th ult., the latter made a concerted and general attack upon the Christians. Scenes of frightful atrocity took place. The males were indiscriminately to the sword; many the elder women shared the same fate and the younger were brutally outraged. The account given by two Bulgarians who escaped from the town of the outrage and murder of old and young is horrible beyond measure. (The above although contradicted at the time, is now after more careful enquiry, officially confirmed.)

AMERICAN NEUTRALITY—WAR MATERIAL.

Within a short time the Russian Government has loaded three vessels with war material at New York, one of the sailed at the same time as the vessels the Russians squadron, and who are to convey her. Each vessel carried 200 tons of brass metal, three to five million cartridges, and 5,000 barrels gunpowder. Up to the present 200,000 pistols have been shipped to Russia. Another vessel with war munitions for Turkey will sail in July.

There seems little probability of neutrality proclamation being issued by our Government. Only two European wars have ever been thus made subject of special notice. No proclamation was issued by the United States during the Chinese war.

Numerous applications are being made to the State Department for assistance to procure positions in branches of the Russian military service. The Department can render no such assistance.

CARDINAL CULLEN ON THE WAR.

Cardinal Cullen, in a pastoral to his clergy, which was ready in the Dublin chapel, says that it is not the business to undertake the defence of the Turks, who have acted so barbarously towards the Christians of late years, of the Russians, who, with a skill worth of Julian the Apostate, in his hatred of the true religion, have carried on a cruel and destructive persecution for so many years against the Poles. If Russia allowed to take possession of Constantinople and of Turkish provinces, there every danger that, under her influence Cossack barbarity will be widely spread that Governments will become despotic that individual and family liberty will be destroyed, and God's Church placed in great jeopardy.

RUS-IA.

The Commander of Sebastopol has ordered civilians to quit that city, as an attack is expected.

The Mohammedan insurrection is increasing. Troops left St. Petersburg to quell the revolt.

The Russian army on the Danube will be increased to eight army corps, aggregating 280,000 men.

A Bucharest despatch says that Russians will cross the Danube June 10th.

The Russians lost 300 killed and wounded in a skirmish near Kurs.

The Turks confine their preparation to strengthening the Danubian fortress. All these are being made more or less formidable, but strengthening their garrisons detracts from the numbers of field force. With all the reinforcements recently brought up, the Turks have more than 200,000 combatants north of the Balkans to resist 250,000 Russians.

The Czar will make Bucharest his headquarters, till the end of the war.

Seven hundred Jews have been deprived of their livelihood by the closing of the navigation of the Danube, and at

THE EXPRESS.

NAPANEE, JUNE, 1st 1877.

THE HOPES OF THE REACTIONISTS.

The Tory sheets throughout the country have been indicating—some with more or less vagueness, and some with a prophetic soul worthy of the astuteness of political HAMLETS—the probability of speedy recurrence of a general election.

Some of them attribute to Mr. Mackenzie the intention of shoving the election upon the country before the opposition is prepared to fight out the contest, with a result justifying the predictions of reaction that every newspaper SOLOX of the true blue has been enunciating every time some insignificant borough or riding has seen fit to change its representation from Grit to Tory.

No matter whether little local differences and influences ruled the result, still it was a genuine "reaction" and the fate of the ministry of the day was sealed. The sealing process has been going on for the last two years, and still the MacKenzie administration sit too firmly in their seats to be solicitous concerning the security of the tenure of their portfolios. The very solicitude of the opposition party. The suspicious imputations of unfair delays to Mr. MacKENZIE and his colleagues, show plainly how they favour the result of a general election.

On every side they are making the most strenuous and unscrupulous efforts to place their party in a position to make victory for their side possible.

They are organizing in every part of the country, even the good old County of Lennox has a band of faithful spirits, a choice litter and coterie of congenial spirits who fill the promptings of ambition, who are urged on by irrepressible motions of loyalty and patriotic devotion to add another unit to the ranks of the country's saviours, to add another star, albeit it may prove to be only a satellite, since, this morning, a wonder of tattooing on the person of Capt. George Costentenus, a descendant of a noble Greek family, from the province of Albania. This statement is that while he, together with an American and a Spaniard, were among in Chinese Tartary, in 1867 a rebellion arose, and the three joined the insurgents. Ill luck coming to their cause, they were taken prisoners, and subjected to the tattooing process for three months, as a punishment in lieu of having their heads cut off. Upon a close inspection, however, it is seen that he is entirely naked, and that the apparent tights are an illusion. Moreover, his whole person is found to be covered with a great variety of animal figures, with their names, most ingeniously and skillfully printed into the cuticle. On the forehead are animals and inscriptions, and on the face star-like figures. On the hands are numerous red points and fingers resembling sculptures, as well as long-tailed panther-like shapes. On the neck, chest, abdomen, back, and extremities, the skin is a mass of symmetrically arranged and admirably executed figures of monkeys, tigers, lions, elephants, peacocks, storks, swans, snakes, crocodiles, lizards, mingled with bows, arrows, leaves, flowers, and fruit; on the palms of the hands are indecipherable figures, and little figures on the inside of the fingers. On the back and sides of both feet to the toes are blue points, and from the toes to the nails red lines. Altogether, there are 388 tattooed pictures on the entire body—on the forehead, 2; neck, 1; chest, 50; back, 37; abdomen, 52; upper extremities, 101; lower extremities, 137. He is certainly one of the greatest human curiosities ever seen. He has traveled in all countries except America, and is attracted here by the Centennial Exhibition. He spoke English, French, Spanish, and Italian, this morning, and he understands the Arabic, Persian and several other languages. He is about five feet high, has a superb physique; his hair is straight jet black, and glossy. To the touch his skin has a very soft velvet feeling; and it has so much the appearance of being clothed, that he might walk through the public streets without anyone suspecting that he was not dressed in tights."

Austin Humphrey, who murdered Frederick Appel at Windsor in February last, suffered the extreme penalty of the law by hanging the morning of the 22nd ult., at Sandwich, near Windsor. The following is his dying speech:—"My dear friends—I am now on the scaffold to pay the last penalty of the law, and I bless God that he has seen fit to pardon me and wash away my sins. I feel that my sentence is just, and I want to warn you all, my dear friends, never, never touch the intoxicating cup. It was all through liquor that I came here. Oh! my friends, as you value your own souls leave that cup alone. It has done more harm than all other things put together, and has been the ruin of thousands as it has been of me. May God have mercy upon me and give me grace."

One hundred and twenty head of fine cattle arrived in Halifax by train from Ontario.

Russia intends to increase the duty on imported cocaine, which now yields about 10,000,000 roubles yearly, sufficiently to increase the yield several millions. Simultaneously the tax on Russian growth will be reduced to encourage home cultivation.

It is officially announced that the Emperor has recalled Bismarck to consider the situation in France, and the probable effect of the change of Ministry upon the relations of France and Germany, important resolutions regarding the future policy of Germany towards France will be adopted.

Prosecutions have been instituted against the provincial papers La Marseillaise and Paris for insulting MacMahon.

Signor Rizzi, Chief Inspector of Police at Lercara Italy, showed much firmness against the brigands at the time of the capture of the English subject, Mr. Rose. On the night of the 15th inst., Signor Rizzi's house was destroyed by an explosion of gunpowder. Himself, his wife, and two sons escaped alive, though severely burnt. The house had been secretly undermined.

Some of the Spanish papers are advocating the aggression of the bull fights, and are publishing an eloquent appeal to the Cortes asking that it may be declared illegal to allow horses to take part in them. There are one hundred bull rings in Spain and only twelve savings banks. Several of the towns which have recently built rings have no schools.

Ireland's contribution to the Papal Jubilee fund amounts to over $100,000. England has contributed $173,000.

Even old Lennox is buckling on her armor to redeem the riding from the meclaus of the Hon. R. J. R. J. CARTWRIGHT.

It is well enough for them to talk glibly of his incapacity, of his extravagant administration of financial affairs of the country, but where will they find a man in the County of Lennox that will stand the ghost of a chance against him in an election? where will they ever find a man in Lennox, who will take a seat in the House of Commons, and go through the mere mechanical process of voting with as much credit, and success as has marked the efforts of the present Minister of Finance, controlling and managing the financial affairs of the first colony of the British Empire. Will this new light burst forth from behind the placid counters of a country store, or will a third-rate lawyer leave his bantam bundle of briefs to gather a deeper mould, and place himself in the breach to redeem the noble County of Lennox

The Russians are in possession of 150,000 Cassiope, of the 1st, which has already captured 100,000 men and twenty-five batteries active army.

The town of Ardahan, which is said to have been captured by the Russians is about 40 miles from the Russian post whence the invading force set out. It is 50 miles from Kars, about a place of great military importance, being situated between the main channel, on one side, and the other from the coast. It gives the Russians control of the valley as far as the Soudan, and where the way is hampered by A Pasha's forces, which held a position by which they maintain communication with Kars. The fall of Ardahan enables the Russians army which it to cause a diversion that may lead to the speedy surrender of that city.

A TURKISH MONITOR DESTROYED BY RUSSIAN.

LONDON, May 28.—A English respondent gives an account of destruction of the Turkish monitor Hamid—"A small detachment of soldiers left the northern shore of the mouth of the Danube in a number of small boats, carrying a chain of speeded filled with dynamite. No being kept aboard the monitor, they were lodged the chain across her. The night being very dark, they managed to surround the monitor before he covered. When finally observed sentries on board, they were shot. The major replied in Turkish, 'F' The Turks not satisfied commenced in the direction of Matching not knowing where the boats came from. The flew wide. During the firing, the Russians soldiers plunged into the swamp silently to the vessel and placed torpedoes in close contact with her. After it had been secretly fastened men returned to the neighborhood, where they discharged the whole of torpedoes by means of an electricity. The vessel immediately disapp

TURKISH BARBARITIES.

Advices from Crete report a state of affairs existing. The Turks combined against the Christians are committing the most outrages. Women are ravished, entire population is in the greatest and excitement. It is rumoured British protection has been solicited.

The Premier and other leaders of the liberal party will probably address public meetings in various parts of the Dominion during the summer.

BELLEVILLE, May 26.—Elizabeth Fradette, the woman accused jointly with Geo. Glenn of being guilty of poisoning her husband in the township of Ardron on Sunday last, was brought here and lodged in gaol yesterday afternoon. She asserted her own innocence and the guilt of Glenn, who has not as yet been arrested. A number of men are pursuing the woods in search of him, and his capture is expected.

AMERICAN.

On the arrival of the European steamers at New York on Saturday, the Custom House officers seized a parcel containing suits of gentlemen's clothing of the finest patterns and quality, several lbs of silk and grenadine for ladies' dresses, and also a number of pairs of shoes and other articles. The goods were valued at $1,200, the duties amounting to over $600. The gentlemen's suits were from Poole, the London tailor. The seizure was made on information furnished to Special Agent Brackett, who told some time ago that an agent in London and Liverpool had been to New York and measured 200 gentlemen's suits, which when done were forwarded to them free of duty through officers of steamships.

The extent of the destitution prevailing throughout the Pennsylvania coal fields again assuming alarming proportions, the announcement that the principal operators have concluded to suspend mining operations for the month has caused great consternation.

CHESTER, Pa., May 22.—At the launch the iron steamship Saratoga, at Roach's wharf this morning, about forty men were under the vessel when it went off, and not hearing the order to come out they were crushed to death. This is the second accident since Roach took the yard, and he has launched some forty vessels. He killed and wounded were workmen engaged in knocking the blocks from under the keel. The scene during the time the ship was going off was heartrending, men being seen struggling to escape, the huge blocks rolled by the ship crushed them to jelly. No assistance could possibly be rendered. Flags are half-mast throughout the town and work at the yard stopped. John Roach offered money to be furnished to the families of the victims.

On Sunday night disguised men went to Bardville, Ky., gaol, seized the negro prisoner Levi Pile, who attempted to order Mrs. Pile, wife of his employer, a week, and dragged him to the woods, where they hung him.

An illicit distillery on Newtown Creek was broken up last night and 8,000 gallons of mash and thirteen hogheads of clams seized by United States officers. Proceedings have been commenced in English courts on behalf of a number of residents of New York and Long Island to recover, as heirs at law, $12,000 in money. It seems that in 10 Robert Shepherd deposited in the bank of England a million pounds to the use of his sister, who had married him in England and gone to Canada. An advertisement appeared, informing the heirs of Robert and his sister that this money which, it is now estimated, has accumulated to thirteen million dollars. Altogether about eleven persons in this country lay a claim to a share in the money. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has reduced the salaries of all the employees 10 per cent except labourers and children.

Boston May 24.—Four inches of snow fell in Berkshire country, Mass., this morning.

THE WAR NEWS.

MURDER OF CHRISTIANS BY TURKS.

In the Turkish village of Turtukai there is quite a Christian element, though subordinate in numbers to the Turks. On the night of the 16th ult., the latter made a concerted and general attack upon the Christians. Scenes of frightful atrocity took place. The males were put indiscriminately to the sword; many of the elder women shared the same fate, and the younger were brutally outraged. The account given by two Bulgarians who escaped from the town of the outrage and murder of old and young is horrible beyond measure. (The above although contradicted at the time, is now after most careful enquiry, officially confirmed.)

AMERICAN NEUTRALITY—WAR MATERIAL.

Within a short time the Russian Government has loaded three vessels with war material at New York, one of them sailed at the same time as the vessels of the Russian squadron, and who are to convey her. Each vessel carried 200 tons of brass metal, three to five millions cartridges, and 5,000 barrels gunpowder. Up to the present 200,000 pistols have been shipped to Russia. Another vessel with war munitions for Turkey will sail in July.

There seems little probability of a neutrality proclamation being issued by our Government. Only two European wars have ever been thus made subjects of special notice. No proclamation was issued by the United States during the Chinese war.

Numerous applications are being made to the State Department for assistance to procure positions in branches of the Russian military service. The Department can render no such assistance.

CARDINAL CULLEN ON THE WAR.

Cardinal Cullen, in a pastoral to his clergy, which was ready in the Dublin chapels, says that it is not their business to undertake the defence of the Turks, who have acted so barbarously towards the Christians of late years, or of the Russians, who, with a skill worthy of Julian the Apostate, in his hatred of the true religion, have carried on a cruel and destructive persecution for so many years against the Poles. If Russia be allowed to take possession of Constantinople and of Turkish provinces, there is every danger that, under her influence, Cossack barbarity will be widely spread, that Governments will become despotic, that individual and family liberty will be destroyed, and God's Church placed in great jeopardy.

RUSSIA.

The Commander of Sebastopol has ordered civilians to quit that city, as an attack is expected.

The Mohammedan insurrection is increasing. Troops left St. Petersburg to quell the revolt.

The Russian army on the Danube will be increased to eight army corps, aggregating 240,000 men.

A Bucharest despatch says the Russians will cross the Danube June 10th.

The Russians lost 300 killed and wounded in a skirmish near Kars.

The Turks confine their preparations to strengthening the Danubian fortresses. All these are being made more or less formidable, but strengthening their garrisons detracts from the numbers of field force. With all the reinforcements recently brought up, the Turks have no more than 200,000 combatants north of the Balkans to resist 250,000 Russians.

The Czar will make Bucharest his headquarters, till the end of the war.

THE NORTH-WEST.

The Mennonite emigration to Manitoba will be limited this year, as it is only known positively of forty families who are coming. Owing to the Russia-Turkish war, the Mennonites cannot sell their property at home at present without a great sacrifice, which of course they decline to do. When the war is over, and property can be sold for fair prices, doubtless there will be a large movement Manitobawards.

WINNIPEG, May 24.—The Queen's Birthday was celebrated here by a universal holiday, races in several parts of the Province, and garrison sports at Winnipeg, etc.

Official news has been received here that the garrison will not be maintained after August.

The City Council appointed a Committee to consider what steps should be taken to provide temporary lodging for the many emigrants who are arriving, all the hotels and boarding houses and the emigrant shed being full. The Committee suggests the erection of tents, or accommodation in the unoccupied barracks to be furnished by the military authorities or a large temporary shed could be erected.

WINNIPEG, May 25.—Six children of Hudson Bay Company's employees at the Lower Fort were nightfully burnt yesterday by the partial explosion of a keg of damaged gunpowder with which they were playing. Five children are dead. Two men and one other child are hourly expected to die. The Hudson's Bay Company's influence prevents an inquest being held.

PACON.
Pacón, Ethan Allen was sired by Old Ethan Allen, out of Black Hawk, by Sherman, by Justice Morgan, by True Britton, an imported horse from England.
Ethan Allen's dam was by Watkins' Highlander, by Young Messenger by Impertinent Messenger.
The dam of Watkins' Highlander was a running mare known as Nancy, brought from Kentucky. Highlander was the sire of the first Kentucky hunter: Grandfire of Flora Temple, Edwin First and many other noted horses. The dam of Pacón's Ethan Allen was a mare of great beauty, speed and endurance, dark bay, with high full mane and tail, she was mother of Pathfinder, a noted Stallion owned by Geo. Benedict of Oneida Co., N. Y. she was also dam to Andrew Jackson, Green Mountain Morgan and, Black Hawk Jr., and Topsy.
No Stock in the State of New York stands higher than this.

This horse took the 1st Premium at the National Horse Fair at Watertown for the Best Stallion, also, for the best hands of Colts from Exhibition. The Stallion is one of the best gaited horses in the world, and is considered by good judges to be one of the best stock horses in the State of New York. Also, 1st Premium at the Midland Central Fair, Kingston, 1876.

The following horses were sired by him:
Continental, sold for $4,500, at four year old - the present owners have refused $12,000. The Pulver Colt was sold for $1,500. "Lew Ives" The Rogers' Colts, sold for $3,500. Martin's pair of 3 years old Colts sold for $1,700, and afterwards one of them sold for $3,000. The Kellogg Colt, at 1 years, sold for $2,800. Bonner paid for "Peachbottom," half sister of Ethan Allen, $12,000. Fie's Mare "Venus" at three years old sold for $5,000, and afterwards her owner refused $85,000. Rufus White four years old, 3 heats under 2:30, half mile in 1:12. Colonel Clark's horse, sold for $1,000. The Gregg Colt. Tom Allen, Aikens' Matched Colts, four and five years, sold last fall for $2,100. Bruce of Watertown, sold his 5 year old mare for $1,000. Hod Howes gelding, New York, 10 hands high, shows a better than a 30 gait. Terry Mare, Hartford, Conn. sold for $4,000. Henry Averell, Adams, sold a 4 year old Colt for $6,000.

This Horse is half-brother to the following horses:-

Holspur, whose record is 2:22; Wm. R. Whitman, 2:23; Harry Allen, 2:27; Le Bloude, 2:27; Peachbottom, owned by Mr. Bonner, 2:18; Rippon Boy, 2:28; Honest Allen, 2:21, and with running mate, 2:17; Warwick, 2:23-1/2; Major Allen, 2:24; Nonsuch, 2:25; Comet, 2:27; Hickory Jack, 2:29; Daniel Lumber, Billy Barr, 2:23; Fanny Lee, 2:21; Warwick, 2:25; Washington Tenny, 2:25.

Canal Enlargement.

Notice to Contractors.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tenders for the Welland Canal", will be received at this office until the arrival of the Eastern and Western mails on THURSDAY, the 3rd day of May next, for the formation of a new line of canal from Marlatt's Pond, at Thorold, to Allanburg, including the construction of a hit lock, guard lock, several culverts and piers and abutments for swing bridges, &c.

Also, the enlargement of about two miles of the canal, from the Junction downward, together with the construction of an Aqueduct over the hippawa River, a lock between the canal and the river at Welland, piers and abutments for bridges, &c.

And, the enlargement of the canal from Ramey's Bend to Port Colborne, including the construction of a guard lock, weir, and supply race, &c.

The works will be let in sections of a length suited to circumstances, and the locality.

Maps of the different localities, together with plans and specifications of the works can be seen at this office on and after MONDAY, the 25th day of June next, where printed forms of tender can be obtained. A like class of information relative to the works north of Allanburg, can be seen at the resident Engineer's office, THOROLD; and for works south of Port Robinson, plans, &c., may be seen at the resident Engineer's office, WELLAND.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that Tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and—in the case of firms—except there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the same; and further, an accepted bank cheque or other available security for the sum of one to five thousand dollars, according to the extent of work on the section, must accompany each Tender, which sum shall be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the works at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The amount required in each case will be stated on the form of Tender.

The cheque or money thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose Tenders are not accepted.

For the due fulfilment of the contract, satisfactory security will be required, by the deposit of money to the amount of five per cent. on the bulk sum of the contract of which the sum sent in with the Tender will be considered a part.

Ninety per cent only of the progress estimates will be paid until the completion of the work. To each Tender must be attached the actual signatures of two responsible solvent persons, residents of the Dominion, willing to become sureties for the carrying out of these conditions as well as the due performance of the works engaged in the contract.

This Department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any Tender.

By order, F. BRAUN, Secretary.

Dunkin in Frontenac

On Friday Mr. Justice Morrison granted a rule nisi, on Mr. Osler's motion to quash the Dunkin by-law in Frontenac.

Mayor Williams

Has been re-elected Right Grand, and Worthy Secretary of the I. O. G. T., by a large majority.

County Council.

The June session of the County Council of Lennox and Addington, will be held in the Court House, Napanee, on Tuesday 12th June, 1877.

Rifle Association Meeting

The annual meeting of the L. & A. Rifle Association for the election of officers etc., will be held at Ferrins Hotel 24th, on Wednesday 6th of June at 2 p.m. T. K. Ross, M. D., Secretary.

Real Estate Purchase.

We understand that Judge Wilkison, has bought the fine property on East Street, lately owned by Mr R. G. Wright, and sold by public auction on Saturday last, for $4,423.

Postponed.

In consequence of the Grange picnic to-morrow, and for other reasons, the Workingmen's Temperance Demonstration has been postponed. Notice will be given when the date is fixed.

Potatoes.

The Oswego Palladium furnishes the following:—A speculator from Canada brought over 300 bushels of potatoes on the Oswego Belle, but was unable to sell them at a dollar a bushel and will take them back.

The Great Show.

In Kingston on Monday next June

Personal.

Mr. T. G. Blackstock has passed his final examination before the law society preparatory to practicing as an attorney.

Lost.

A flat folding steel key. Will the finder please return to the EXPRESS Office.

The "Pioneer."

This fine yacht leaves on her first trip, on Monday evening, with a crowd of pleasure seekers for Barnum's show in Belleville. From thence she goes to Toronto, returning by the way of Ogdensburg, and touching at several intermediate ports.

Academy Athletic Association.

The first public competition will take place on the Academy grounds to-morrow, at 1 o'clock p.m. Rev. J. J. Bogart, Judge Wilkison, and Messrs. Geddes and Morden, will act as judges, Mr. T. Trimble, starter, and W. Tilley, time-keeper. Jumping, running, putting weights, steeple chase, and gymnastic exercises on horizontal and parallel bars, ladder, trapeze, etc. Entries to be made before 5 p.m. to-day (Friday). The prizes will be distributed in the Academy after the games. Ladies and gents invited, (particularly the ladies)—that is, if they wish to see how Charles Augustus has been developing his biceps.

Timely Advice—Pickpockets.

An organized gang of pickpockets follows in the wake of Barnum's show. In Watertown they reaped a rich harvest, empty pocket-books were found all over the city. In the first place don't miss the show, secondly, you go to see Barnum, not to exhibit yourself with a huge watch-chain, etc., otherwise you could engage with P. T., who would, perhaps, place you in the monkey cage, or side by side with the tattooed foreigner or zebra, and then invidious comparisons would be made by those rascally Darwinians, which would be extremely odious. We accordingly advise you, Almira Jane, to leave that "oriseid" chain and locket at home, and Charles Henry had better deposit his family time-piece and pocket-book with his mother, for safe keeping, or some heartless "professional" will relieve him of his surplus wealth, as easily as a snail crawls over a cabbage leaf on a dewy morning.

Pringle Bros.—Cemetery Fencing.

We had occasion to examine a very creditable specimen of ornamental iron fencing, manufactured by the above firm for Messrs. Fraser & Madden, and recently erected in our cemetery. Pringle Bros. supply a host of designs to choose from, and if necessary, get up special patterns to suit the taste and purse of any customer. Their facilities in regard to machinery enable them to execute successfully in this respect, and parties who have been in the habit of ordering from a distance, can now save the attendant delay, freightage &c., besides having work done under their own supervision, by fostering home industry. Besides doing a general repairing business, a superior quality of reapers, mowers, trucks &c., are being manufactured by this enterprising firm. See ad.

Mr. Byrnes said he only wanted justice and would appeal to the Judge.

G. B. SILL'S APPEAL.

Mr. Sills appealed against the assessment of the office on Dundas st. occupied by him, on the ground that it was occupied by him as an officer of the Dominion Government.

The Clerk said that Mr. Sills was assessed for $1250 as a tenant of Mr. Wm. Miller.

Moved by Mr. James, sec. by Mr. Lane, that the assessment be struck out.—Carried.

G. W. HUMPHREY'S APPEAL.

Mr. Humphrey appealed against his assessment for a bitch. He had sold her, and at the time of the assessment she had returned home from Shannonville. He had a dog now—Assessed for a dog instead.

J. N. LAPUM'S APPEAL.

Mr. Lapum appealed for a reduction on his property on Dundas st., opposite Herrin's implement works. It was assessed for $1,100 which he considered too high, and asked that it be made $900.

Mr. Roe said he thought $1,100 was too much. He moved that $1,100 be struck out and $1,000 inserted instead. Mr. McNeill seconded the motion which was carried.

C. Z. PERRY'S APPEAL.

Mr. Perry appealed to have D. Perry's name inserted as tenant of his instead of the name of A. F. Shorts. Alteration ordered.

R. MATHESON'S APPEAL.

Mr. Matheson appealed against an assessment of $600 for income. He said that the assessment for income should be upon that of the previous year, and not of the current year which was not yet earned and could not be assessed. He had an income last year of $500 only, having been employed a good part of the year in St. Catharines closing up his business—Reduced from $600 to $100

JOHN SOBY'S APPEAL.

Mr. Soby put in three appeals: (1), to have Potter Bro's name inserted instead of his as tenant of Buico House, (2), to have his name inserted as tenant of Lot 14, south side Bridge street, and (3) to have Potter Bro's name inserted as tenants of part east side East st. instead of his. Mr. Potter consented to the change and it was, on motion, ordered that Mr. Soby's name be struck out and S. J. Potter inserted instead. Mr. Boyle consented to have his name struck out as tenant of No. 14 South side Bridge street, and John Soby's inserted instead, and it was accordingly so ordered. Mr. Boyle was put on as tenant of W. Miller.

FERGUSON BRO'S APPEAL.

Mr. Wm. Ferguson appeared on half of the firm and asked that their name be struck out as tenant of No. 9 south side Dundas st. They had spoken to Mr. Webster and he agreed that they should not be assessed. Their lease expired on the 14th April and at 7 p.m. on the 13th they tendered Mr. Waller the keys and rent, and after that, on the same evening, were assessed for the property as the lease expired at midnight of that day after the tender, they were not tenants and should not be assessed.

Mr. Gibbs appeared for Mr. Waller and said that the only question was as to whether or not they were tenants, and if they were the assessment should not be changed as it was right. He held that they were in possession until the close of the 14th, and having been assessed on the 13th it was just and should not be changed.

Mr. Webster said that on the 9th of April when assessing on Dundas st.

Hard Times in Nevada.

Correspondence from Nevada represents a terrible state of affairs. A writer says:—Men who but three months since supposed they were rich, are to-begging for employment; and probably three persons out of every four are making their first acquaintance with extreme poverty. The whole community seems to be beggared, and to add to affliction we have just passed through great drought; our cattle are dying the hundreds of thousands. Their carcasses cannot be sold for any sum, however small; and the ruin of the cattle dealers will inevitably bring a great deal of the land now held in masses into market to be sold for a song. Poor East, who have money, could not better that to come out here in order to take advantage of the reckless way in which all kinds of property are sold. Valuable farms and ranches can now had for one-twentieth of their value, city property is for sale at prices which would have seemed ridiculous a few years ago. Southern California is described as an "ash heap," while the Sonora Sacramento, and Sonora Valleys burned by a crisp for want of rain.

EMIGRATION TO CANADA.

The Belfast News thinks it is plain from the recent debate in the Dominion Parliament on the immigration estimate that hon. members generally have begun to see that the immigration agency business has been overdone, in so far as sweeping into the million thousands of people who were wanted, and who are now a burden to colony and to themselves, flying everywhere and anywhere from misery and hardship. The report of the Minister of Agriculture, says the News, shows that last year the Government spent $1,405 assisting 1,761 indigent immigrants, while during the year 1873 the expenditure was $2,000 for assisting 8,000 indigent immigrants. We thought, judging from the flashy announcements in the literature the walls, that there was room enough and work enough for all who might come from Ireland or any other part Belleville and Napanee as Bob Kennedy, was arrested at Prince's Corners on Friday last by constable Adair, of Orillia, on a charge of attempting to shoot Mr. Dargue, proprietor of the hotel at Prince's. Our Railway Bridge.

The bridge over the river by which the Napanee and Orillia roads are connected, is one of the best on the line. An employee of the company has been engaged in painting the whole structure, which was much needed. It improves the appearance and adds to the stability, so that now, timber travelers will have no fears of an Astoria disaster, every one is as safe as when the first regular train passed over twenty-one years ago.

Caution to Emigrants.
Persons starting for Manitoba should be cautioned in purchasing assignments of half-breed miners' claims. In Winnipeg such assignments being of unquestionable legality, and often made to several different persons. This caution is not intended to imply that the volunteer county warrants which carry their genuineness on their face. Many of the assignments before referred to, are utterly valueless, and some of the emigrants arriving have been heartlessly scolded.

Dunkin in Prince Edward.
The Pictou New Nation denies the report that the liquor traffic in Prince Edward goes on about as it did before the Dunkin Act came in force, and "says it is a palpable falsehood to bolster up a bad cause. To state that the traffic goes on about as it did before the Act came into force, is stating what every man, woman, and child in Pictou knows to be false. If the traffic did go on as before, neither Licensed Victuallers nor the Police would have a word to say about it. But it is because the traffic is curtailed to a minimum, and driven to secrecy and darkness, that an attempt is made to fasten it upon the law."

Napanee Victorious.
It is gratifying to note the success which attended the Napanee Cricket and Base Ball Clubs on the 24th. The former at Massasaqua Point, beat the Belleville Club by 1, with 4 wickets to go down. The Silver Leaf Base Ball Club beat the Clippers of Belleville on the latter's ground, by a score of 62 to 32. Our base ballists speak very highly of the hospitable manner in which they were entertained by their opponents, who seemed to "study to please" and win and find the victors, besides showing them around, and otherwise doing the agreeable, a fact which will not be forgotten by our boys at the return match, in Napanee on Monday next, the 1th of June.

Liberal-Conservative Gathering.
A Liberal-Conservative association for Lennox was formed on the 24th in the Town Hall. The meeting was organized by the appointment of Mr. M. W. Prunty as chairman. Mr. W. N. Dollar, Warlen of the County, was proposed by Mr. J. T. Grange, M.P.P., and unanimously elected President. The following Vice-Presidents were then chosen: Messrs. E. Storr and P. W. Dube, Reeve and Deputy Reeves of Richmond; Chas. Lloyd, of North Fredericksburgh; Ira Han, Reeve of South Fredericksburgh; Parker Allen, of Adolphustown; D. Preston, of Amherst Island; T. E. Howard, of Bath; E. Hooper, County Treasurer, and M. W. Prunty, of Napanee. Mr. G. M. Elliott, of the Standard, was chosen Secretary, and Mr. Chas. Fraser, of Ernestown, Treasurer. Committee for each municipality were appointed, and arrangements completed for a canvass in every school section.

The exterior is beautifully painted, the centre figure being a life-like portrait of the famed Plincaus, with surroundings of animals from the various parks of the world, which have been collected together by the remarkable man named for the instruction and delight of the public generally. The interior is fitted up in an elegant manner, being a sort of "travelling hotel," there being twelve sleeping berths, and a private parlor for the advance business agent, in which he does his necessary writing. The kitchen for the manufacture of paste for the brigade, is well adapted for the purpose; while the cases for the paper will hold sufficient for from four to six weeks' steady work on the road. There is a room for the paste cans, brushes, etc., while they even have a wash-bowl with them. Barnum never does things by halves, and this car is an exemplification of the fact. Mr. J. H. Breeze, the boss bill-poster of America, is in the command of the brigade, which is an efficient one. Mr. Stowe, the press agent, travels in the car, and he also is a gentleman who thoroughly understands every department of his business.

COURT OF REVISION.
The Court of Revision for the town of Napanee met and organized on Monday. Present: Messrs. Herring (chairman), Lane, McNeill, James and Roe. They took the prescribed oath, and the Court proceeded to business. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

DANIEL BYRNES' APPEAL.
Mr. Daniel Byrnes, of Hungerford, appealed against the assessment of lots Nos. 21, 22 and 23 on the West side of Robert st.
Mr. McNeill said Mr. Byrnes had not given a regular notice of appeal because he had not received a bill of his assessment. He supposed it was his (McNeill's) fault. He thought the assessment was too high, as his lots were assessed at $200 each, while those around him were only assessed for from $100 to $150. He moved that the assessment on Lots 21, 22, 23, be reduced to $150 each.
The Clerk stated that Mr. Byrnes was assessed for Lots 21, 22 and 23, at $200 each, and for 26 on the same street for $100 or $700 in all.
Mr. Byrnes said he bought the lots three years ago, when the town was prosperous, at the same rate as the intervening lots (24 and 25). He was assessed at $200 per lot and the others at $100. He had never got a bill of assessment, but never failed to get a bill of taxes. He would at any time sell the lots for the assessment. In reply to Mr. Roe he said he would not take any less. The lots had cost him $225 each.
Mr. Roe said that if he would take no less for the lots the assessment was just right.
Mr. Webster produced a map to show the position of the lots, and reference to the Assessment roll, showed that the lots on the East side of Robert st. were assessed for the same amounts.

J. H. WAGAR'S APPEAL.
Mr. McNeill presented an appeal from Mr. Wagar to be assessed as tenant of Alfred Wagar, Clarksville. It was found that would destroy both votes, and as they used the same door as entrance and exit, the appeal was dismissed.

W. McCALLUM'S APPEAL.
Mr. McCallum asked to have his son, T. J. McCallum assessed jointly with him, as owner. Moved by Mr. Roe, see, by Mr. James, that the appeal be granted. Carried.

It was then moved and second that the Roll as amended be passed, and the motion having carried, the court adjourned.

FLINTON.

Mr. Bennett - The people here are evidently determined to be somebody, and are showing as bold a front as the front cities and towns of the front, notwithstanding the fact that this place is called (by the vulgar only, of course) a back settlement.

If you had been here last Friday night you would, doubtless, have thought we had declared war with somebody, to see the numerous martial-looking gents strewn about in different directions, and large numbers of men all around with long poles, and as evening set in, the great camp fires lit up the field of tents, and the sturdy men, not as might be supposed, in training for a European war, but engaged in the art of peace and honest industry. The last batch of the 10,000 bays was being floated the falls, 19,000 still being left in Wolf Lake till the spring of next year.

Saturday last ushered in the commencement of a grand field day among the travelling Catholics of this vicinity, and considering the numerous splendid turn-outs of baggies, democrats' wagons, phaetons, &c., &c., anyone with half an eye would see somebody was about to appear of no ordinary importance, and such was the case. The Right Rev. Bishop De O'Brien of Kingston was on his way, and like the passage of the bride and bridegroom of scripture, they were going forth to meet him, but unlike the wise and foolish virgins, they did not wait long enough, however a little before midnight, the great chief and his staff arrived.

Sunday was a busy day and early in the morning, about 9:30, the popular bishop was in the midst of his flock, they having welcomed him upon their knees. The staff consisted of the strait-forward John Bull-like McDonough, priest of the parish, also the Rev. Vicar Genl. Farley of Belleville, whose chief business seemed to be to look after the cash box, which he did with as good ability as ever Tetzel (pretentive pranditis inquisitor) did while selling indulgences in the days of Luther. Then came the sober-looking tall Dr. Chisholme of Perth, this Dr. wears a venerable beard, so immense is the priesthood.

The services of the day commenced with the consecration of the church. The Bishop appearing in full costume (I suppose his mitre, gold chain and purple coat reaching to his boots, and over all his beautiful embroidered white lace gown.

An explanation to the people by V. G. Farley as to their need of money to pay off a large debt on the Bishops' palace at Kingston followed, and every one of the faithful (and unfaithful too) was visited by the indefatigable Vicar-Genl., accompanied by several trustees of the church, and by the time all had been visited, about $80 (credit and cash) had exchanged owners, next followed Mass by Dr. Chisholme and confirmation of about thirty, mostly young folks, by the Bishop. In the afternoon the grave-yard was consecrated, and after the ceremony, addresses in English by Dr. Chisholme and French by the Bishop, reminding the flock of their duty to pray for the souls of the departed, that they by their prayers might be assisted and delivered better that to come out here in order to take advantage of the reckless way in which all kinds of property are sold. Valuable farms and ranches can now be had for one-twentieth of their value, and city property is for sale at prices which would have seemed ridiculous a few years ago." Southern California is described as an "ash heap," while the Sonoma, Sacramento, and Sonora Valleys are burned to a crisp for want of rain.

EMIGRATION TO CANADA.

The Belfast News thinks it is quite plain from the recent debate in the Dominion Parliament on the immigration estimate, that hon. members generally have begun to see that the immigration agency business has been overdone, in so far as sweeping into the Dominion thousands of people who were not wanted, and who are now a burden to the colony and to themselves, flying everywhere and anywhere from misery and hardship. The report of the Minister of Agriculture, says the News, shows that last year the Government spent $1,405 in assisting 1,761 indigent immigrants, while during the year 1873 the expenditure was $2,000 for assisting 8,000 indigent immigrants. We thought, judging from the flashy announcements in the literature of the walls, that there was room enough and work enough for all who might emigrate from Ireland, or any other part of the world to Canada; but Mr. Pope says that last year "1,761 indigent immigrants" were relieved, and four years ago, before anything was heard about the misery to which thousands of our credulous countrymen had become a prey, 8,000 indigent immigrants were on the relief list! We may form some idea from these facts of the condition of the immigrants who have lately been arriving in Canada. Mr. Monteith declared that it was a gross mistake to have agents in Europe to pick up on the streets in the cities any classes they could get hold of, and send them out to the Dominion. It is a gross mistake to have them in Ireland as numerous as they have been; and we may be permitted to inform the Dominion House of Commons that it the agents who may not be required in this country for some years to come, would return to the Dominion, whose prayers they have been singing, the people might have more faith in their statements, and immigration would improve sooner than will otherwise be the case.

THE RIGHT OF SEARCH.

As there is much comment in regard to the probability of the Russian fleet which left New York, going to sea for the purpose of inspecting vessels suspected of having arms and munitions of war on board, it may be proper to state that, according to our treaties with France, Prussia, Brazil, Sweden, the Netherlands, United States of Columbia, Spain, Holland and several other nations, the examining vessels shall remain out of gun-shot of the vessel to be searched, and send small boats to board the vessel suspected.

The proof of regularity with respect to the cargo must be certificates containing particulars of the cargo, place sailed from, where bound, &c., but the hatches are not to be opened, nor any of the packages, unless the vessel is brought ashore, and then in the presence of competent officers. The master of any suspected vessels cannot be required to leave his ship. Our treaty with Great Britain and Russia are silent as to the whole proceeding. Under the treaties with the other nations, first mentioned, everything is left to depend upon the honesty of the ship's papers. Contraband goods may lie beneath every hatch, under the guise of hardware on the manifests, and cannot be examined except by the vessel of either Great Britain or Russia, which governments are not bound by the treaties above cited.

Moved by Mr. James, sec. by Mr. Lane, that the assessment be confirmed.—Carried.

Mr. Byrnes said he only wanted justice and would appeal to the Judge.

G. B. SILL'S APPEAL.

Mr. Sills appealed against the assessment of the office on Dundas st. occupied by him, on the ground that it was occupied by him as an officer of the Dominion Government.

The Clerk said that Mr. Sills was assessed for $1250 as a tenant of Mr. Wm. Miller.

Moved by Mr. James, sec. by Mr. Lane, that the assessment be struck out.—Carried.

G. W. HUMPHREY'S APPEAL.

Mr. Humphrey appealed against his assessment for a bitch. He had sold her, and at the time of the assessment she had returned home from Shannonville. He had a dog now.—Assessed for a dog instead.

J. N. LAPUM'S APPEAL.

Mr. Lapum appealed for a reduction on his property on Dundas st., opposite Herne's implement works. It was assessed for $1,100 which he considered too high, and asked that it be made $900.

Mr. Roe said he thought $1,100 was too much. He moved that $1,100 be struck out and $1,000 inserted instead. Mr. McNeill seconded the motion which was carried.

G. D. PERRY'S APPEAL.

Mr. Perry appealed to have D. Perry's name inserted as tenant of his instead of the name of A. F. Shorts. Alteration ordered.

R. MATHESON'S APPEAL.

Mr. Matheson appealed against an assessment of $600 for income. He said that the assessment for income should be upon that of the previous year, and not of the current year which was not yet earned and could not be assessed. He had an income last year of $500 only, having been employed a good part of the year in St. Catharines closing up his business.—Reduced from $600 to $100.

JOHN SOBY'S APPEAL.

Mr. Soby put in three appeals: (1), to have Potter Bro's name inserted instead of his as tenant of Brisco House, (2), to have his name inserted as tenant of Lot 14, south side Bridge street, and (3) to have Potter Bro's name inserted as tenants of part east side East st. instead of his. Mr. Potter consented to the change and it was, on motion, ordered that Mr. Soby's name be struck out and S. J. Potter inserted instead. Mr. Boyle consented to have his name struck out as tenant of No. 14 South side Bridge street, and John Soby's inserted instead, and it was accordingly so ordered. Mr. Boyle was put on as tenant of W. Miller.

FERGUSON BRO'S APPEAL.

Mr. Wm. Ferguson appeared on half of the firm and asked that their name be struck out as tenant of No. 9 south side Dundas st. They had spoken to Mr. Webster and he agreed that they should not be assessed. Their lease expired on the 14th April and at 7 p. m. on the 18th they tendered Mr. Waller the keys and rent, and after that, on the same evening, were assessed for the property as the lease expired at midnight of that day after the tender, they were not tenants and should not be assessed.

Mr. Gibson appeared for Mr. Waller and said that the only question was as to whether or not they were tenants, and if they were the assessment should not be changed as it was right. He held that they were in possession until the close of the 14th, and having been assessed on the 18th it was just and should not be changed.

Mr. Webster said that on the 9th of April when assessing on Dundas st. he saw Mr. Ferguson moving out of the place and passed it for the time being, but on the 18th, in the evening, Mr.

from the pains of purgatory. Lastly though perhaps not least came the lecture at 4 p. m. as advertised, he spoke for about five minutes in French, and then commenced in English, as it was Pentecost Sunday he said he would speak to his audience on "The Church." He hoped not to offend, said he tried, and had been successful in the past, in not saying anything to offend anyone. For my part I should rather that he had tried to have offended or pleased by going into a hot debatable point in their or somebody else's theology and let us have heard the worst or best of it, but no, it was as mild drawn and with the exception of about two or three points, might have passed in the Methodist pulpit. At about 4:45 all was over and we left, several feeling sorry he had not taken us into pastures new (to some of us) and over a wider range of reasoning and thought. Receipts of the day amounted to about $115 or $120, as near as could be guessed.

OBSERVER.

May 21st 1877.

BEAVER LAKE.

Times have been brisk around here lately.

Several floating fields of logs have sailed through our "Medina-terra" under the management of Mr. Anderson and others, bound for their place of destination.

Mudcats are very plenty, an extraordinary haul was lately made, and which were despatched without mercy.

On the night of the 24th, Mr. J. H. Jones, was taken very sick, violent purging, and vomiting, and spasmodic contractions of the limbs, we are glad to say he is gradually getting better, but still very weak.

Seduction and its Punishment.

About two years ago the trustees of the school in the county of Victoria engaged a new teacher. Among the scholars there happened to be a rather clever and attractive girl of thirteen years of age, on whom Sheppard soon fastened an evil eye. To accomplish his purpose, the poor girl was specially praised and described to her parents as capable of doing much more than was possible during the ordinary school hours. She was worth spending extra labour upon, and so the teacher professed that if the parents would furnish the extra books, he was willing to give the needed instruction out of school hours. The snare was a transparent one, but the parents did not suspect anything, the more especially as the girl was a mere child. The books were bought, and the teaching went on in the school room after all the other children had left. The result does not need to be told. The matter came up lately before Judge Burton at Lindsay, and the miserable scamp was sentenced to pay $1,000 damages. The Judge said that it was one of the worst cases ever brought before a Court of Justice, and the lame and impotent conclusion for such an expression of opinion was a fine, which in all likelihood will never be paid. We have no hesitation in saying that for such a crime as this a fine should never be mentioned. For far less many a man has been hanged and many more are serving out life-long punishments in the penitentiary.—Globe

Hard Times in Nevada

Correspondence from Nevada represents a terrible state of affairs. One writer says:—Men who but three months since supposed they were rich, are to-day begging for employment; and probably three persons out of every four are now making their first acquaintance with extreme poverty. The whole community seems to be beggared, and to add to our affliction we have just passed through a

KNOWLEDGE IS POWER.

This is a nation of enlightened free-men. Education is the corner-stone and foundation of our government. The people are free to think and act for themselves, and that they may act wisely it is necessary that they be well informed. Every individual gain increases public gain. Upon the health of the people is based the prosperity of a nation, by it every value is increased, every joy enhanced. Health is essential to the accomplishment of every purpose; while sickness thwarts the best intentions and loftiest aims. Unto us are committed important health trusts which we hold not merely in our own behalf but for the benefit of others. In order that we may be able to discharge the obligation of our generous commission, it is necessary that we study the art of preserving health and prolonging life. It is of paramount importance to every person not only to understand the means for the preservation of health, but also to know what remedies should be employed for the alleviation of the common ailments of life. Not that we would advise every man under all circumstances to attempt to be his own physician, but we entreat him to acquire sufficient knowledge of his system and the laws that govern it, that he may be prepared to take care of himself properly, and thereby prevent sickness and prolong life. In no text book will the people find the subjects of physiology and hygiene, or the science of life and the art of preserving health, more scientifically discussed or more plainly taught than in "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," by R. V. Pierce, M. D., of Buffalo, N. Y. It is a volume of over nine hundred large pages, illustrated by over two hundred and eighty-two engravings and colored plates, is elegantly bound in cloth and gilt, and is sent, post-paid, to any address by the author at the low price of one dollar and fifty cents a copy. Nearly one hundred thousand copies have already been sold, and the present edition, which is revised and enlarged and more especially adapted to the wants of the family, is selling very rapidly. It treats of all the common diseases and their remedies, as well as of anatomy, physiology, hygiene, human temperaments, and many other topics of great interest to all people, and is truly what its author styles it, "Medicine Simplified."

He held that they are in possession until the close of the month, and having been assessed on the 14th it was just and should not be changed.

Mr. Webster said that on the 9th of April when assessing on Dundas st. he saw Mr. Ferguson moving out of the house and passed it for the time being, it on the 13th, in the evening. Mr. Waller came to him and demanded the assessment of Ferguson Bros. under the move.

The whole community seems to be beggared, and to add to our affliction we have just passed through a great drought; our cattle are dying by the hundreds of thousands. Their carcasses cannot be sold for any sum, however small; and the ruin of the cattle dealers will inevitably bring a great deal of the land now held in masses into the market to be sold for a song. Southern California is described as an "ash heap," while the Sonoma, Sacramento, and Sonoma Valleys are burred to a crisp for want of rain.

EMIGRATION TO CANADA.

The Belfast News thinks it is quite plain from the recent debate in the Dominion Parliament on the immigration estimate, that hon. members generally have begun to see that the immigration agency business has been overdone, in so far as sweeping into the Dominion thousands of people who were not wanted, and who are now a burden to the colony and to themselves, flying everywhere and anywhere from misery and hardship. The report of the Minister of Agriculture, says the News, shows that last year the Government spent $1,105 in assisting 1,761 indigent immigrants, while during the year 1873 the expenditure was $2,000 for assisting 8,000 indigent immigrants. We thought, judging from the flashy announcements in the literature of the walls, that there was room enough and work enough for all who might emigrate from Ireland, or any other part of the world to Canada; but Mr. Pope says that last year "1,761 indigent immigrants" were relieved, and four years ago, before anything was heard about the misery to which thousands of our credulous countrymen had become a prey, 8,000 indigent immigrants were on the relief list! We may form some idea from these facts of the condition of the immigrants who have lately been arriving in Canada. Mr. McNeill declared that it was a gross mistake to have agents in Europe to pick up on the streets in the cities any classes they could get hold of, and send them out to the Dominion. It is a gross mistake to have them in Ireland as numerous as they have been; and we may be permitted to inform the Dominion House of Commons that it the agents who may not be required in this country for some years to come, would return to the Dominion, whose language they have been singing, the people might have more faith in their statements, and immigration would improve sooner than will otherwise be the case.

THE RIGHT OF SEARCH.

As there is much comment in regard to the probability of the Russian fleet which left New York, going to sea for the purpose of inspecting vessels suspected of having arms and munitions of war on board, it may be proper to state that, according to our treaties with France, Prussia, Brazil, Sweden, the Netherlands, United States of Columbia, Spain, Holland and several other nations, the examining vessels shall remain out of gun-shot of the vessel to be searched, and send small boats to board the vessel suspected.

The proof of regularity with respect to the cargo must be certificates containing particulars of the cargo, place sailed from, where bound, &c., but the hatches are not to be opened, nor any of the packages, unless the vessel is brought ashore, and then in the presence of competent officers. The master of any suspected vessels cannot be required to leave his ship. Our treaties with Great Britain and Russia are silent as to the whole proceeding. Under the treaties with the other nations, first mentioned, everything is left to depend upon the honesty of the ship's papers. Contraband goods may lie beneath every hatch, under the guise of hardware on the manifests, and cannot be examined except by the vessels of either Great Britain or Russia, which governments are not bound by the treaties above cited.

LIQUID MANURE.

Manure in a liquid state is the most beneficial manner of applying it, when immediate results are required. Containing as it does the fertilizing principles in a liquid condition, it is more readily absorbed by the feeding roots of the plants. It can also be applied at all stages of the plant's growth, which often cannot be done with solid manure; and some plants, which are not in a condition for being much stimulated in the earlier stages of their growth, can more readily receive it at the time they do need it when in a liquid form. For instance, peach trees grown in pots or beds under glass, if heavily manured with ammoniacal fertilizers before or at a time they are started into growth, are apt to drop their fruit when stoning—the most critical period of their growth—but if applied after this stage, it of the greatest benefit to them, increasing the size of the fruit.

Farmers who allow the liquid part of their manure to get to waste, lose the most beneficial part of it, as ammonia is produced in the greatest abundance in the liquid part. The urine of cows, horses and swine, together with the drainings of their droppings, if allowed to run into a tank, then pumped on the manure heap or upon a composite heap, and then applied as a surface manure on the grass, will produce very beneficial effects. Some of the leading farmers in Scotland utilize all the urine and drainings of their barnyards in this manner. It is conveyed from the stables into a large tank, into which they place a pump. Near by they collect into a heap all the road scrapings and ditch cleanings they can secure on their farms, and pump upon it the contents of the tank, conveying it to different parts of the heap, with gutters. During the season the heap is turned once or twice, and when thoroughly saturated with the liquid, is conveyed to where it is wanted—more being added to the heap as it can be procured. According to Johnston the urine of man and that of the pig, for most soils, are more beneficial than that of the horse. The cow and the sheep; they contain phosphates—the phosphates of the horse, cow and sheep remaining in the solid excrements. In applying liquid manure to growing plants, great care should be exercised that it is not applied too strong, nor the ground saturated with it, as in either condition it is apt to destroy the tender rootlets of the plants.

Urine used in an unmixed state is very beneficial to plants. It should first be allowed to putrefy, than be largely diluted with water. Pigeons' dung makes an excellent liquid manure for all kinds of plants in pots, of a succulent or soft-wood nature. A peck put into a barrel of water and allowed to remain for a few days before being used, and then applied diluted with about one-half water I have used with very beneficial results on roses, fuchsias, geraniums, and other fast-growing plants.

Guano used as a liquid manure should be cautiously applied, for if used to strong it has very injurious effects. It should be mixed with water to the colour of weak tea before using, and twice a week is often enough for any class of plants. When a plant is injured with guano water its leaves get yellow and fall off, the oldest and most mature dropping first.—M. Milton, in Country Gentleman.

FARMERS MOVING TO TOWN

We notice, says the Hamilton Times, that a not very distant society of farmers has the following general proposition down on paper for its next debate: "Would it be advisable for farmers, after acquiring a competency and having passed the meridian of life, to sell their farms and retire to villages or cities to spend their declining years?" We are not prepared even to guess at the verdict which will be agreed to, but it is scarcely likely the resolution will be carried unless amended. The amendment would be in connection with the selling of the farms. In certain conditions, such as there being no son able to manage them, the sale would be proper enough, but otherwise good farm property should not too readily be disposed of. Its value always is steadily advancing and is never subject to the sudden and extreme fluctuations met in towns and cities. About the question of old farmers spending their declining years in centres of populations, it is precisely what they should do. They there find far more means of enjoying life, they no longer can nor need surrender to the exacting duties of their late honorable calling; they can live more happily and comfortably and will never regret the change they have made. This is the opinion of a large number of wealthy farmers who have come to reside in Hamilton, most of whom, however, beside acquiring city property, some to a very large amount, have retained the best of that they formerly owned in the country.

But there is a side to the question which is not mentioned in the resolution quoted; that is moving into town for the purpose of going into business. That is a point which should be discussed and, we believe, it can be but with one conclusion—which is that it is the most unsound policy a farmer can pursue. Take, for instance, one who, after years of toil, has acquired a competency. He is moved, either by his own wishes or the pressing representations of his family, perhaps, to sell or mortgage all he has, take up a store in town and invest his capital in some business, generally that of groceries. While his cash holds out he is "badgered with agents who have goods to sell him. He is no judge of them, he has no experience and he is taken advantage of at every turn—as the Grangers themselves have found out to their cost in some parts of Canada and the United States, where they threw the knowing middleman over their shoulders, and, in their entire ignorance of the trade, undertook directly to deal "at headquarters." The farmer-merchant finds himself continually defrauded, not only by those who sell him, in the several senses of that term, but also by those who buy from him. His customers are sure to include persons whose credit is worthless where they are known, and every "dead-beat" that can hear of him, and hear of him they assuredly will. In short, his lack of experience and the train hands.

His customers are sure to include persons whose credit is worthless where they are known, and every “dead-beat” that can hear of him, and hear of him they assuredly will. In short, his lack of experience at his new business is the rock on which he is wrecked. The exceptions are few. The majority of cases are as we have described them, where in a few years, well-to-do farmers have been completely ruined, which, happening at their time of life, is a disaster of the most terrible character. We, therefore, would like to see an amendment introduced into the resolution we have copied, know that it has been discussed, and that the general principle of experienced farmers, risking their property and means in business in towns, where they are strangers, has been emphatically condemned.

LIQUID GRAFTING WAX

There are many recipes for grafting wax, varying somewhat in their composition, according to the particular purpose for which they are intended. The Practical Farmer publishes the following formula:

Liquid grafting wax, which being about the consistency of honey, it says, may be readily applied with a brush for outdoor grafting, without the trouble of heating. It is likewise a good application for wounds in trees, cuts made in pruning, etc.: Melt together 1 pound of rosin, and 1 pound of good beef tallow. Remove from the stove and let cool until a scum forms over it, then add one teaspoonful of spirits of turpentine; replace on the stove and add seven ounces of a mixture of two parts strong alcohol and one part water, stirring briskly and taking care that the alcohol does not inflame, as it will if the mixture is too hot. Stir until the liquid is lost in the mixture, when it should be of the consistency of honey. Keep in a closed bottle and apply with a brush. If after a month or two it becomes hard, remelt, add a few more drops of turpentine, and of the alcohol and water. A few days after it is applied it becomes hard, and will remain unchanged, except that it grows harder, for an indefinite time.

A bridge on the Midland railway near Peterborough was fired by some ruffians in the hope of wrecking the night train. The catastrophe was averted, but the bridge was destroyed and destroyed. This is the third similar attempt of the Midland within a few weeks.

A New Court House, nearly completed in Rockford, Ill., recently fell down, killing ten men and wounding fourteen. The dome was 119 feet from the ground, and was supported by iron columns, which in turn rested on the brick wall. The latter was not constructed of sufficient strength to hold up the superincumbent weight. It accordingly gave way, and was followed by the entire dome and roof, leaving little more than four walls of the edifice standing. At the inquest on the Court House disaster, the architects placed the responsibility of the accident on the technical ignorance and incompetence of the local superintendent of the building. The evidence showed that the weight placed on the piers was almost double their bearing capacity.

The Waterloo (Que.) Advertiser says: A Sheffield Mountain farmer entered an insurance office one day this week, with a look on his face which clearly indicated that he appreciated fire insurance, and couldn't have a policy written on his property too soon. He accosted the agent in an anxious manner, and said he guessed he would have his barns insured. The agent, thinking he had a good thing started with the man to his premises about five miles out of town. Arriving, the good man's implicit trust and confidence in the correct principles and direct advantages of fire insurance were explained in the fact that about twenty-five of his neighbours were working “night and main” to save his buildings from destruction by a bush fire in close proximity. The agent declined the risk, and walked home in disgust.

Henry Ward Beecher says: “There is nothing for which I think God more fervently than for the unwavering faith he has given me in the purity, the virtue, the honor of women. I have had it from my youth, and now, at the end of a long life, I can say that I have not lost a particle of that chivalrous trust. Therefore, when I hear young men yelping their impertinences, middle-aged men cynically criticising, infirm old men murmuring their obscenities, I am utterly disgusted. My soul communes not with such men.” —That's right H.W. we all know you're a ladies' man.

A LECTURE TO YOUNG MEN.

WE have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's celebrated essay on the radical and permanent cure of all outmoded of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, of this admirable Essay clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequence may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.
